ANTHRAX and lurid leads might be surprised to learn that in 1690 the newspaper Publick Occurrences gossiped about the sexual indiscretions of French royalty or seasoned the story of missing children by adding that barbarous Indians were lurking about before the disappearance. Surprising too might be the media's steady adherence to its philosophical and ethical moorings. These 39 essays written and edited by the nation's leading professors of journalism cover the theory and practice of print radio and TV news reporting. George Seldes' War for the Public Good Helen Fordham, 2019-11-14. This book examines the idea of fake news through an analysis of the work of early to mid-twentieth century press critic George Seldes. By examining fake news, also known as propaganda and misinformation, from this period, it becomes evident that it is a phenomenon that emerges in response to particular social, political, and economic conditions. It is therefore not a new process but always a feature of the media ecosystem. Seldes' work makes evident that contemporary anxieties about the role, function, future, and credibility of journalism were expressed in the 1930s and 1940s. The same fears were circulated about the consequences of fake news and propaganda on democratic debate. The same concerns were also expressed about how technology extends the circulation of propaganda and fake news and affects journalism practices. An analysis of Seldes' media criticism of the fake news lies and propaganda in daily newspapers in the 1930s and 1940s exposes the historical nature and impact of fake news on public debate and affirms the critical role of journalists in exposing fake news.

media environment that most Americans would recognize has not been identified in the public mind expectation setting Journalists regularly tell audiences what actions candidates should take on the campaign trail based solely on whether they are leading or trailing in public opinion polls Polls Expectations and Elections TV News Making in U S Presidential Campaigns follows the rise and proliferation of this phenomenon through a comprehensive content analysis of transcripts of CBS Evening News broadcasts during presidential election campaigns from 1968 to 2012 Richard Craig uses numerous examples from these transcripts to illustrate how television news has gone from simply reporting poll data to portraying it as nearly the only motivation for anything candidates do while campaigning He argues that with the combination of heightened coverage of campaigns and the omnipresence of poll data campaign coverage has largely become a day to day series of contests with candidates portrayed as succeeding or failing each day to meet expectations of what the candidate at a given position in the polls should do on the campaign trail Highlighting the change in news media and candidate coverage Polls Expectations and Elections will appeal to scholars of media studies political communication and journalism
