

A misty landscape with a large tree and a fence. The scene is bathed in a warm, golden light, suggesting sunrise or sunset. A large, leafy tree stands on the right side of the frame, its branches reaching out. In the foreground, a dark, silhouetted fence runs across the bottom. The background is a soft, hazy expanse of land and sky.

Life Lessons Melissa Benn,2018-10-09 A radical agenda to make our education system fit for the twenty first century Our education system has been damaged by politicians who have arrogantly imposed a regime of market driven reforms It is time to reframe education as an essential public good one arising from a hunger to find more engaging ways to learn and the powerful imperative to make our society genuinely equal In this timely and provocative essay Melissa Benn argues for a National Education Service Like the NHS the NES would provide the framework for a life long entitlement to education from early years provision to apprenticeships universities and adult education It should be free at the point of delivery It should nurture teachers and scholarship moving beyond an obsession with exam results to create fully rounded questioning citizens Its eventual aim should be an integrated comprehensive system available to all

Economy and its Enemies Jane Duckett, William L. Miller, 2006-12-21 There is a vigorous debate about the merits of globalisation for developing countries Based on numerous focus group discussions and over 10 000 interviews this book studies economic and cultural openness from the perspective of the public in four developing or transitional countries Vietnam South Korea the Czech Republic and Ukraine both before and after the Orange Revolution It finds many supporters of opening up but also many who are discontented with its downsides and who expect states to tackle the exploitation and unfairness that accompany it Among the most fervent enemies of openness there is support not just for peaceful public protest to tackle the problems it brings but for violence or sabotage The methodology provides a unique opportunity for the public in developing countries to speak with their own voices about markets and openness and highlights the subtlety ambiguity tensions conflicts and emotion that statistics alone fail to capture International Handbook of Lifelong Learning

David N. Aspin, Judith Chapman, Michael Hatton, Yukiko Sawano, 2012-12-06 Recent changes in the world effected by the transformations of information technology globalisation and the move towards a knowledge economy over the last thirty years have been as radical and fundamental as the changes resulting from the invention of the wheel and the printing press We are now living in a new age in which the demands are so complex so multifarious and so rapidly changing that the only way in which we shall be able to survive them is by committing to a process of individual communal and global learning throughout the lifespan of all of us A number of international bodies and agencies have taken cognisance of these transformations and the demands they impose upon societies and communities of the twenty first century and have developed and articulated policies intended to enable all citizens of the world in the twenty first century to face these challenges It is now a declared policy of many governments and international agencies that the only vehicle for such preparation is education education education and that preparing for the knowledge economy and the learning society of the future has to be a lifelong undertaking an investment in the future that is not restricted merely to the domain of economic advancement but also to those of social inclusion and personal growth Realising this policy makers across the international arena are grappling with the need to move from systems that emphasise education and training to the radically more unworked construct of lifelong learning In this volume the editors and authors analyse criticise and rework the ideas principles and theories underpinning policies and programs of lifelong learning re interpreting them in the light of examples of best practice found in a range of educating institutions around the world We believe that students of educational change and community development will find it useful and helpful to have available in this volumesome of the most up to date thinking on the chief concepts theories and values of increasing policy interest in lifelong learning together with a review of some significant examples of the different forms focuses and nexuses of thought and practice on this topic All this enables us to offer some policy recommendations and practical suggestions as to ways forward in the endeavour to make lifelong learning a reality for all
