Notes On The Fox Wapanowiweni:

Notes on the Fox Wâpanôwiwenit Truman Michelson, 1932      Notes on the Fox Wapanowiweni Truman Michelson, 2013-03-01 Bonded Leather binding      Monograph series Statens etnografiska museum (Sweden), 1953      The Meskwaki and Anthropologists Judith M. Daubenmier, 2008-01-01 The Meskwaki and Anthropologists illuminates how the University of Chicago's innovative Action Anthropology program of ethnographic fieldwork affected the Meskwaki Indians of Iowa. From 1948 to 1958 the Meskwaki community near Tama, Iowa, became effectively a testing ground for a new method of practicing anthropology proposed by anthropologists and graduate students at the University of Chicago in response to pressure from the Meskwaki Action Anthropology as the program was called. It attempted to more evenly distribute the benefits of anthropology by way of anthropologists helping the Native communities they studied. The legacy of Action Anthropology has received limited attention but even less is known about how the Meskwakis participated in creating it and shaping the way it functioned. Drawing on interviews and extensive archival records, Judith M. Daubenmier tells the story from the viewpoint of the Meskwaki themselves. The Meskwaki alternatively cooperated with, befriended, ignored, prodded, and collided with their scholarly visitors in trying to get them to understand that the values of reciprocity within Meskwaki culture required people to give something if they expected to get something. Daubenmier sheds light on the economic and political impact of the program on the community and how some Meskwaki manipulated the anthropologists and students through their own expectations of reciprocity and gender roles. Giving weight to the opinions, actions, and motivations of the Meskwaki, Daubenmier assesses more fully and appropriately the impact of Action Anthropology on the Meskwaki settlement and explores its legacy outside the settlement's confines. In so doing, she also encourages further consideration of the ongoing relationships between scholars and Indigenous peoples today.      Indians of Northeastern North America C.F. Hamp, 2019-01-14 No detailed description available for Themes in Linguistics "That the People Might Live" Arnold Krupat, 2012-11-15 The word elegy comes from the Ancient Greek elogos meaning a mournful poem or song, in particular a song of grief in response to loss. Because mourning and memorialization are so deeply embedded in the human condition, all human societies have developed means for lamenting the dead, and in That the People Might Live, Arnold Krupat surveys the traditions of Native American elegiac expression over several centuries. Krupat covers a variety of oral performances of loss and renewal, including the Condolence Rites of the Iroquois and the memorial ceremony of the Tlingit people known as koo eex, examining as well a number of Ghost Dance songs which have been reinterpreted in culturally specific ways by many different tribal nations. Krupat treats elegiac farewell speeches of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries in considerable detail and comments on retrospective autobiographies by Black Hawk and Black Elk Among contemporary Native writers he looks at elegiac work by Linda Hogan N Scott Momaday Gerald Vizenor Sherman Alexie Maurice Kenny and Ralph Salisbury among others Despite differences of language and culture he finds that death and loss are consistently felt by Native peoples both personally and socially someone who had contributed to the People's well being was now gone Native American elegiac expression offered mourners consolation so that they might overcome their grief and renew their will to sustain communal life Midwinter Rites of the Cayuga Long House Frank G. Speck turned to the study of Iroquois ceremonialism This 1950 book investigates the religious rites of the Cayuga tribe one of six in the Iroquois confederation that occupied upstate New York until the American Revolution In the 1930s and the 1940s Frank Speck observed the Midwinter Ceremony the Cayuga thanksgiving for the blessings of life and health performed in long houses on the Six Nations Reserve in Ontario Collaborating with Alexander General Desk heh the noted Cayuga chief Speck describes vividly the rites and dances giving thanks to all spiritual entities Of special interest are the medicine societies that not only prescribed herbs but used powerfully evocative masks in treating the underlying causes of sickness Southwestern Monuments: Monthly Report United States.
