Pleasures And Palaces After School Activities Of Russian Children:

Pleasures and Palaces Miriam Morton, 1972 Sacrificing Childhood Julie K. deGraffenried, 2014-11-18 During the Soviet Union's Great Patriotic War from 1941 to 1945 as many as 24 million of its citizens died 14 million were children ages fourteen or younger And for those who survived the suffering was far from over The prewar Stalinist vision of a happy childhood nurtured by a paternal loving state had given way out of necessity What replaced it the dictate that children be prepared to sacrifice everything including childhood itself created a generation all too familiar with deprivation violence and death The experience of these children and the role of the state in shaping their narrative are the subject of this book which fills in a critical but neglected chapter in the Soviet story and in the history of World War II In Sacrificing Childhood Julie deGraffenried chronicles the lives of the Soviet wartime children and the uses to which they were put not just as combatants or workers in factories and collective farms but also as fodder for propaganda their plight a proof of the enemy's depredations Not all Soviet children lived through the war in the same way but in the circumstances of a child in occupied Belarus or in the Leningrad blockade a young deportee in Siberia or evacuee in Uzbekistan deGraffenried finds common threads that distinguish the child's experience of war from the adult's The state's expectations however were the same for all children as we see here in children's mass media and literature and the communications of party organizations and institutions most notably the Young Pioneers whose relentless wartime activities made them ideal for the purposes of propaganda The first in depth study of where Soviet children fit into the history of the war Sacrificing Childhood also offers an unprecedented view of the state's changing expectations for its children and how this figured in the nature and direction of post war Soviet society Ecology and the Sacred Roy A. Rappaport, 2001 A meaningful homage to an extraordinary anthropologist CAS Curriculum Advisory Service, Inc, 1972 CAS. Curriculum Advisory Service Quarterly, 1973

The Reading Teacher, 1973 Coming of Age in Post-Soviet Russia Fran Markowitz, 2000 Anthropologist Fran Markowitz interviewed more than one hundred Russian teenagers to discover how adolescents have been coping with their country's seismic transitions Her findings present a substantive challenge to near axiomatic theories of human development that regard cultural stability as indispensable to the successful navigation of adolescence Markowitz's fieldwork leads to the surprising conclusion that the disruptions brought by glasnost perestroika and the fragmentation of the USSR exerted a greater impact on Western political hopes and on many of Russia's adults than on young people's perceptions of their lives In their remarks on topics ranging from being Russian to religion sex music and military service the teenagers convey a flexible and optimistic approach to the future and a sense of security deriving from strong family school and neighborhood ties Their perspectives suggest that culture change and social instability may be seen as positive forces allowing for expressive opportunities the establishment of individualized identities and creative pragmatic planning Multicultural Teaching Pamela L.
