Plundering Africa's Past Peter R. Schmidt, Peter Ridgway Schmidt, Roderick J. McIntosh, 1996 Plundering Africa's Past Peter Ridgway Schmidt, Roderick J. McIntosh, 1996-08-22 An important book at a time when the booming illicit trade in African antiquities and the despoiling of some of the continent's prime archaeological sites generate little concern in the art world Foreign Affairs This benchmark publication challenges all of us to be part of the solution Plundering Africa's Past cannot help but raise the level of discourse and consciousness about the looting problem what needs to be done to stop it and about the relationship between Africa and the West African Studies Review Plundering Africa's Past should be required reading for all archaeologists historians art historians museum curators and government officials involved in the cultural heritages of Africa as well as most countries and continents with a disappearing past H Net Book Review African government and museum officials members of international agencies academics and journalists examine why the African past is disappearing at a rate perhaps unmatched in any other part of the world Each looks at the international network of looting and trafficking from a different perspective Here for the first time is a frank indictment of African contributions to the problem voiced by the distinguished African essayists The book concludes with a discussion of specific steps that could halt the disappearance of Africa's art and antiquities Safeguarding Africa's Archaeological Past Niall Finneran, 2005 Selected papers from a workshop held at the School of Oriental and African Studies University of London 2001 Cambridge Monographs in African Archaeology 65 Series Editors John Alexander and Laurence Smith *Echoes of Africa's Past. its relevance to debates on sustainability and cultural heritage in the Anthropocene Archaeological knowledge is incremental and hard won It is assembled through time intensive study of fragmentary evidence and its corpus represents intergenerational effort Though sometimes based on the study of stones our interpretations are not written in them Our working hypotheses typically run ahead of the evidence needed to assess them Expanded investigations new methods and changing premises compel revision and sometimes outright rejection of earlier ideas Typological aids deemed useful by earlier generations may outlive their usefulness at the same time as the evidence they organize remains pertinent and available for rethinking The cumulative character of archaeological knowledge enables scalar perspectives across space and through time casting what we know of one location in relief through comparison to others These revisions rethinkings and scalar reflections encourage us to appreciate the complexity and diversity of past contexts as amply illustrated in contributions to this volume In short resuscitating echoes of Anthropocene Africa is painstaking work In this way and others archaeology is and should be slow science Ann B Stahl University of Victoria BC Canada

Community-based Heritage in Africa Peter R. Schmidt, 2017-03-03 This volume provides a powerful alternative to the Western paradigms that have governed archaeological inquiry and heritage studies in Africa Community based Heritage Research in Africa boldly shifts focus away from top down community engagements usually instigated by elite academic and heritage institutions to examine locally initiated projects Schmidt explores how and why local research initiatives which are often motivated by rapid culture change caused by globalization arose among the Haya people of western Tanzania In particular the trauma of HIV AIDS resulted in the loss of elders who had performed oral traditions and rituals at sacred places the two most recognized forms of heritage among the Haya as well as distinct alternatives to the authorized heritage discourse favored around the globe Examining three local initiatives Schmidt draws on his experience as an anthropologist invited to collaborate and co produce with the Haya to provide a poignant rendering of the successes conflicts and failures that punctuated their participatory community research efforts This frank appraisal privileges local voices and focuses attention on the unique and important contributions that such projects can make to the preservation of regional history Through this blend of personalized narrative and analytical examination the book provides fresh insights into African archaeology and heritage studies

Library, 1997 Illicit Antiquities Neil Brodie, Kathryn Walker Tubb, 2003-08-27 The exploitation of archaeological sites for commercial gain is a serious problem worldwide In peace and during wartime archaeological sites and cultural institutions both on land and underwater are attacked and their contents robbed for sale on an international antiquities market Objects are excavated without record smuggled across borders and sold for exorbitant prices in the salesrooms of Europe and North America In some countries this looting has now reached such a scale as to threaten the very survival of their archaeological and cultural heritage This volume highlights the deleterious effects of the trade on cultural heritage but in particular it focuses upon questions of legal and local responses How can people become involved in the preservation of their past and what in economic terms are the costs and benefits Are international conventions or export restrictions effective in diminishing the volume of the trade and the scale of its associated destruction The Archaeology and Ethnography of Central Africa James Denbow, 2014 This book provides the first detailed description of the prehistory of the Loango coast of west central Africa over the course of more than 3000 years Routledge Handbook of Critical African Heritage Studies Ashton Sinamai, John D. Giblin, Shadreck Chirikure, Ishanlosen Odiaua, 2024-09-06 This handbook is a foundational reference point for critical heritage research about Africa and its diaspora. Foregrounding the diversity of knowledge systems needed to examine heritage issues in such a diverse continent, the contributors to this volume argue for an understanding of heritage that is at once both natural and cultural, tangible and intangible, political and dissonant, going beyond the physical and objective to include subjective narratives, performances, rituals, memories, and emotions. Examining the pre-coloniality, coloniality, post-coloniality, and decoloniality of current African heritage discourses and their consequences, they analyse how heritage legislation derived from colonial law is compatible or otherwise with how heritage is perceived, identified, and remembered in African communities. Discussing questions of repatriation, restitution, and reparations in relation to the return of artefacts from Western countries, they illuminate the importance of difficult heritage within Africa and its diaspora. Considering the role of heritage for development in Africa, this book is an important read for scholars of African Studies, heritage and museum studies, archaeology, anthropology, and history.

Navigating World History P. Manning, 2003-05-15. World history has expanded dramatically in recent years, primarily as a teaching field and increasingly as a research field. Growing numbers of teachers and Ph.Ds in history are required to teach the subject. They must be current on topics from human evolution to industrial development in Song dynasty China to today's disease patterns and then link these disparate topics into a coherent course. Numerous textbooks in print and in preparation summarize the field of world history at an introductory level. But good teaching also requires advanced training for teachers and access to a stream of new research from scholars trained as world historians. In this book, Patrick Manning provides the first comprehensive overview of the academic field of world history. He reviews patterns of research and debate and proposes guidelines for study by teachers and by researchers in world history.

Utimut Mille Gabriel, Jens Dahl, 2008. This book identifies a need to move beyond discussions of ownership, power, and control in favour of exploring new kinds of partnerships between museums and the peoples or countries of origin, partnerships based on equitability and reconciliation.
