additional chapter on the place of Semitic as a subgroup of Afro Asiatic and several chapters on modern forms of Arabic Aramaic and Ethiopian Semitic text samples of each individual language transcribed into the International Phonetic Alphabet with standard linguistic word by word glossing as well as translation new maps and tables present information visually for easy reference This unique resource is the ideal reference for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students of linguistics and language It will be of interest to researchers and anyone with an interest in historical linguistics linguistic typology linguistic anthropology and language development

Irisleabar na Gaeilge, 1897 A Theory of Distributed Number Myriam Dali, Eric Mathieu, 2021-08-15 The objective of this book is to develop a deeper understanding of the form and interpretation of number Using insights from Generative syntax and Distributed Morphology we develop a theory of distributed number arguing that number can be associated with several functional heads and that these projections exist depending on the features they specify In doing so we make a strong claim for a close mapping between the syntactic structure and the semantics in the noun phrase since each node corresponds to a different interpretation of number Despite some technical implementations the book is accessible to linguists working outside any particular syntax semantic framework since we propose generalizations that are applicable in many if not all models of grammar The book focuses on Arabic but also discusses a number of languages including English French Ojibwe Blackfoot Hebrew Japanese Korean Chinese Turkish Persian and Western Armenian
