Power Transition in Asia David Walton, Emilian Kavalski, 2016-08-12 Current preoccupations with the rise of Asia attest to the nascent contestation of the very idea of what the pattern of international politics should look like and how it should be practiced In this respect the growing reference to a shift to the East in global politics has become a popular shorthand for the nascent power transition in world affairs This volume offers a detailed conceptual and empirical investigation of the dynamics of power transition in Asia and details the accommodation strategies and coping mechanisms of different small and middle powers in Asia and importantly China's responses to these approaches

When the Stakes Are High Vesna Danilovic, 2002-11-18 DIVReintroduces the concept of vital national interests into the field of deterrence research in conflict studies div

War and Peace in International Rivalry Paul Diehl, Gary Goertz, 2010-06-02 This book provides the first detailed analysis of international rivalries the long standing and often violent confrontations between the same pairs of states The book addresses conceptual components of rivalries and explores the origins dynamics and termination of the most dangerous form of rivalry enduring rivalry since 1816 Paul Diehl and Gary Goertz identify 1166 rivalries since 1816 They label sixty three of those as enduring rivalries These include the competitions between the United States and Soviet Union India and Pakistan and Israel and her Arab neighbors The authors explain how rivalries form evolve and end The first part of the book deals with how to conceptualize and measure rivalries and presents empirical patterns among rivalries in the period 1816 1992 The concepts derived from the study of rivalries are then used to reexamine two central pieces of international relations research namely deterrence and democratic peace studies The second half of the book builds an explanation of enduring rivalries based on a theory adapted from evolutionary biology punctuated equilibrium The study of international rivalries has become one of the centerpieces of behavioral research on international conflict This book by two of the scholars who pioneered such studies is the first comprehensive treatment of the subject It will become the standard reference for all future studies of rivalries Paul F Diehl is Professor of Political Science and University Distinguished Teacher Scholar University of Illinois He is the coeditor of Reconstructing Realpolitik and coauthor of Measuring the Correlates of War Gary Goertz is Assistant Professor of Political Science University of Arizona and is the coauthor with Paul Diehl of Territorial Change and International Conflict

Regions of War and Peace Douglas Lemke, 2002-01-21 In this contribution to the literature on the causes of war Douglas Lemke asks whether the same factors affect minor powers as affect major ones He investigates whether power parity and dissatisfaction with the status quo have an impact within Africa the Far East the Middle East and South America Lemke argues that there are similarities across these regions and levels of power and that parity and dissatisfaction are correlates of war around the world The extent to which they increase the risk of war varies across regions however and the book looks at the possible sources of this cross regional variation concluding that differential progress toward development is the likely cause This book will interest students and scholars of international relations and peace studies as well as comparative politics and area studies

Complex Rivalry Surinder Mohan, 2022-10-06

While a substantial body of research explains how the conflict between India and Pakistan originated and developed over time a systematic and multivariate inquiry cutting across different IR paradigms to understand this rivalry is rare or limited Surinder Mohan contributes to the understanding of India and Pakistan s rivalry by presenting a new type of framework also known as complex rivalry model This comprehensive model by not limiting its theoretical tool kit to any single paradigm is unique in its approach and better positioned to debate and answer baffling questions that the single paradigm based studies address rather inadequately and in isolation This book through an examination of fifty seven militarized disputes between 1947 and 2021 explains the life cycle of India Pakistan rivalry in four phases initiation development maintenance and a possible transformation termination Mohan delineates five specific conditions that evolved the subcontinental conflict into a complex rivalry first its survival in spite of the Bangladesh War and the end of the Cold War second its linkage with other rivalries third the inclusion of nuclear factor fourth the dyadic stability in the militarized disputes and hostility level despite changes in the regime type and fifth the dyad s involvement in a multilayered conflict pattern To break this deadlock and mitigate their longstanding differences Mohan proposes that India and Pakistan must reframe their national priorities and political goals so that the new situation or combinations of conditions would assist their peace strategists to downgrade the dyadic hostility and implement risky policies to make headway to a promising transformation

Good-Bye Hegemony!

Simon Reich, Richard Ned Lebow, 2014-03-23 Many policymakers journalists and scholars insist that U S hegemony is essential for warding off global chaos Good Bye Hegemony argues that hegemony is a fiction propagated to support a large defense establishment justify American claims to world leadership and buttress the self esteem of voters It is also contrary to American interests and the global order Simon Reich and Richard Ned Lebow argue that hegemony should instead find expression in agenda setting economic custodianship and the sponsorship of global initiatives Today these functions are diffused through the system with European countries China and lesser powers making important contributions In contrast the United States has often been a source of political and economic instability Rejecting the focus on power common to American realists and liberals the authors offer a novel analysis of influence In the process they differentiate influence from power and power from material resources Their analysis shows why the United States the greatest power the world has ever seen is increasingly incapable of translating its power into influence Reich and Lebow use their analysis to formulate a more realistic place for America in world affairs

Mapping BRICS Media Kaarle Nordenstreng, Daya Kishan

Thussu, 2015-03-27 Mapping BRICS Media is the first comprehensive and comparative study of the emerging media landscape in the world's most dynamic and fastest growing markets. This pioneering collection focuses on one of the key topics in contemporary international relations: the emergence of BRICS (Brazil, Russia, India, China, and South Africa), a grouping that includes some of the world's largest populations and fastest growing economies. The volume brings together leading scholars mainly from the BRICS nations to examine how the emergence of the BRICS media will impact on global media and communication. Contextualizing the rise of the BRICS nations within the broader shifts in global power relations, the chapters investigate the unprecedented growth of the BRICS media within a multi-polar world, evaluating the media landscapes in the individual BRICS countries, their histories, and their journalism practices, as well as analyzing emerging inter-BRICS media relationships. Accessible and comprehensive, the book provides a critical guide to the complex debates about the impact of the rise of the rest on the media globe and how far this poses a challenge to the Western-dominated world order and its media systems.

Balance of Power T. V. Paul, James J. Wirtz, Michel Fortmann, 2004 Since the sudden disappearance of the Soviet Union, many scholars have argued that the balance of power theory is losing its relevance. This text examines this viewpoint as well as looking at systematic factors that may hinder or favour the return of balance of power politics.

Realism and Institutionalism in International Studies Michael Brecher, Frank P. Harvey, 2009-12-11 Realism and Institutionalism in International Studies represents a unique collection of original essays by foremost scholars in the field of International Studies. Six essays advocate critique or revise Realism, the theoretical paradigm that explains international politics by emphasizing security, competition, and war among states. The remaining four essays address Institutionalism, the paradigm that offers explanations for the formation, maintenance, variation, and significance of international institutions. The authors reflect on the strengths and weaknesses of these approaches and suggest research agendas for the future. Together, this volume provides an accessible and wide-ranging survey of the issues concerning two major paradigms in International Studies. This volume will be of interest to scholars and students alike and will undoubtedly determine the shape of future research.

The War Puzzle John A. Vasquez, 1993-05-06 This book constructs a new scientific explanation of the onset and expansion of war and the conditions of peace. The author describes systematically those factors common to wars between equal states to see if there is a pattern that suggests why war occurs and how it might be avoided or mitigated, delineating the typical path by which relatively equal states have become embroiled in wars with one another in the modern global system. Emphasis is placed on the issues that give rise to war and how the practices of power politics lead to a series of steps that produce war rather than peace. The book differs from others in that it employs the large number of empirical findings generated in the last twenty-five years as the basis of its theorizing and integrates these research findings so as to advance dramatically the scientific knowledge of war and peace.

Handbook of War Studies II Manus I. Midlarsky, 2000 Essays reflecting the most recent theoretically and empirically oriented research on international warfare.

Systemic Transitions

W. Thompson,2009-01-05 We are all familiar with the popular and academic analyses of the ongoing and future ascent of China Two of the associated questions are whether and when China might succeed the United States as the lead state in the world system These are interesting questions albeit ones that are not likely to be answered in the immediate future An alternative focus examines instead periods of systemic transition eras in which it is conceivable that a new leader might emerge at the expense of an older system leader Framing the question this way presumes that a future systemic transitions remain a possibility and b transitions do not occur abruptly but may require several decades to set up structural situations in which a transition might take place Neither of these assumptions are carved in stone and are open to question It may be that future systemic transitions are unlikely Or it may be that they will not occur as they have in the past All of these possibilities are assessed from a variety of different perspectives

Russia Abroad Anna Ohanyan,2018-10-01 While we know a great deal about the benefits of regional integration there is a knowledge gap when it comes to areas with weak dysfunctional or nonexistent regional fabric in political and economic life Further deliberate un regioning applied by actors external as well as internal to a region has also gone unnoticed despite its increasingly sophisticated modern application by Russia in its peripheries This volume helps us understand what Anna Ohanyan calls fractured regions and their consequences for contemporary global security Ohanyan introduces a theory of regional fracture to explain how and why regions come apart consolidate dysfunctional ties within the region and foster weak states Russia Abroad specifically examines how Russia employs regional fracture as a strategy to keep states on its periphery in Eurasia and the Middle East weak and in Russia s orbit It argues that the level of regional maturity in Russia s vast vicinities is an important determinant of Russian foreign policy in the emergent multipolar world order Many of these fractured regions become global security threats because weak states are more likely to be hubs of transnational crime havens for militants or sites of protracted conflict The regional fracture theory is offered as a fresh perspective about the post American world and a way to broaden international relations scholarship on comparative regionalism

Power in Transition Charles Kupchan,Jason Davidson,Mira Sucharov,2001 This work addresses the question of how to prepare for the waning of American hegemony and the resultant geopolitical consequences Case studies examined include the Concert of Europe Anglo American rapprochement at the end of the 19th century and ASEAN

The Geriatric Peace Haas,2023-08 This chapter explores the causes of population aging diminishing fertility levels and rising life expectancies and why it is inevitable in most countries It then discusses the book s four main hypotheses Advanced stages of population aging will significantly reduce states capacity or military capabilities to war while increasing leaders and citizens preferences for peace Hypothesis 1 Because of aging s impact on capabilities and preferences demographically old countries will be less likely to initiate wars than will younger ones Hypothesis 2 If an aged country does initiate war the effects of aging will create major barriers to military success Hypothesis 3 Finally the effects of population aging will help prevent a power transition between the United States and China Hypothesis 4 Although the United States confronts major challenges created by its aging population it is significantly better shape in this area than is China Population aging as a result will be a potent force for the continuation of US relative power dominance The chapter concludes with analyses of the book s contributions to the literature counterarguments and their problems operationalization of variables and case selection criteria Provided by publisher Millennial Reflections on International Studies Michael Brecher, Frank P. Harvey, 2002-08 DIVCollection of essays that debate the question of progress in the discipline div
