The Politics of Multiracialism Heather M. Dalmage, 2012-02-01 This is the first book to critically look at the political issues and interests surrounding the broadly defined Multiracial Movement and at what is being said about multiracialism Many of the multiracial family organizations that exist across the United States developed socially ideologically and politically during the conservative Reagan years While members of the Multiracial Movement differ widely in their political views the concept of multiracialism has been taken up by conservative politicians in ways that are often inimical to the interests of traditionally defined minorities Contributors look at the Multiracial Movement's voice and at the political controversies that attend the notion of multiracialism in academic and popular literature internet discourse census debates and discourse by and about pop culture celebrities The work discusses how multiracialism hybridity and racial mixing have occurred amidst existing academic discussions of authenticity community borders identity politics the social construction of race and postmodern fragmentation How the Multiracial Movement is shaping and transforming collective multiracial identities is also explored

The Politics of Kinship Mark Rifkin, 2024-01-29 What if we understood the idea of family as central to representing alternative forms of governance as expressions of racial deviance In The Politics of Kinship Mark Rifkin shows how ideologies of family including notions of kinship recast Indigenous and other forms of collective self organization and self determination as disruptive racial tendencies in need of state containment and intervention Centering work in Indigenous studies Rifkin illustrates how conceptions of family and race work together as part of ongoing efforts to regulate assault and efface other political orders. The book examines the history of anthropology and its resonances in contemporary queer scholarship, contemporary Indian policy from the 1970s onward, the legal history of family formation and privacy in the United States, and the association of blackness with criminality across US history. In this way, Rifkin seeks to open new possibilities for envisioning what kinds of relations, networks, and formations can and should be seen as governance on lands claimed by the United States.

Tertullian the African David E. Wilhite, 2011-06-24. Who was Tertullian and what can we know about him? This work explores his social identities, focusing on his North African milieu. Theories from the discipline of social cultural anthropology, including kinship, class, and ethnicity, are accommodated and applied to selections of Tertullian's writings. In light of postcolonial concerns, this study utilizes the categories of Roman colonizers, indigenous Africans, and new elites. The third category, new elites, is actually intended to destabilize the other two, denying any essential Roman or African identity. Thereafter, samples from Tertullian's writings serve to illustrate comparisons of his own identities and the identities of his rhetorical opponents. The overall study finds Tertullian's identities to be manifold, complex, and discursive. Additionally, his writings are understood to reflect antagonism toward Romans, including Christian Romans, which is significant for his so-called Montanism and Romanized Africans. While Tertullian accommodates much from Graeco-Roman literature, laws, and customs, he nevertheless retains a strongly stated non-Romanness and an Africanity which is highlighted in the present monograph.
