Greenhill, Jason D. LaFountain, 2015-05-05 A Companion to American Art presents 35 newly commissioned essays by leading scholars that explore the methodology historiography and current state of the field of American art history Features contributions from a balance of established and emerging scholars art and architectural historians and other specialists Includes several paired essays to emphasize dialogue and debate between scholars on important contemporary issues in American art history Examines topics such as the methodological stakes in the writing of American art history changing ideas about what constitutes Americanness and the relationship of art to public culture Offers a fascinating portrait of the evolution and current state of the field of American art history and suggests future directions of scholarship Fashionability, Exhibition Culture and Gender Politics Meaghan Clarke, 2020-06-11 Fair Women was the Victorian equivalent of a blockbuster exhibition Organised by a committee of women it opened to great fanfare in the Grafton Galleries in London and was comprised of both historical and contemporary portraits of women as well as decorative objects Meaghan Clarke argues that the exhibition challenged contemporary assumptions about the representation of women and the superficiality of female collectors The Fair Women phenomenon complicated gender stereotypes and foregrounded women as cultural arbiters This book uncovers a wide range of texts and images to reveal that Fair Women brought together fashion modernity and gender politics in new and surprising ways It shows that while invariably absent in institutional histories women were vital to the development of the modern blockbuster exhibition This book will be of interest to scholars in art and gender studies museum studies feminist art history women artists and art history Eanger Irving Couse Virginia Couse Leavitt, 2019-01-24 Eanger Irving Couse 1866 1936 showed remarkable promise as a young art student His lifelong interest in Native American cultures also started at an early age inspired by encounters with Chippewa Indians living near his hometown Saginaw Michigan After studying in Europe Couse began spending summers in New Mexico where in 1915 he helped found the famous Taos Society of Artists serving as its first president and playing a major role in its success This richly illustrated volume featuring full color reproductions of his artwork is the first scholarly exploration of Couse's noteworthy life and artistic achievements Drawing on extensive research Virginia Couse Leavitt gives an intimate account of Couse's experiences including his early struggles as an art student in the United States and abroad his study of Native Americans his winter home and studio in New York City and his life in New Mexico after he relocated to Taos In examining Couse's role as one of the original six founders of the Taos Society of Artists the author provides new information about the art colony's early meetings, original members and first exhibitions. As a scholar of art history, Leavitt has spent decades researching her subject, who also happens to be her grandfather. Her unique access to the Couse family archives has allowed her to mine correspondence, photographs, sketchbooks and memorabilia, all of which add fresh insight into the American art scene in the early 1900s. Of particular interest is the correspondence of Couse's wife, Virginia Walker, an art student in Paris when the couple first met. Her letters home to her family in Washington State offer a vivid picture of her husband's student life in Paris, where Couse studied under the famous painter William Bouguereau at the Académie Julian. Whereas many artists of the early twentieth century pursued a radically modern style, Couse held true to his formal academic training throughout his career. He gained renown for his paintings of southwestern landscapes and his respectful portraits of Native peoples. Through his depictions of the domestic and spiritual lives of Pueblo Indians, Couse helped mitigate the prejudices toward Native Americans that persisted during this era.

The Routledge Companion to African American Art History Eddie Chambers, 2019-11-12 This Companion authoritatively points to the main areas of enquiry within the subject of African American art history. The first section examines how African American art has been constructed over the course of a century of published scholarship. The second section studies how African American art is and has been taught and researched in academia. The third part focuses on how African American art has been reflected in art galleries and museums. The final section opens up understandings of what we mean when we speak of African American art. This book will be of interest to graduate students, researchers and professors, and may be used in American art, African American art, visual culture and culture classes.

"Landscape, Art and Identity in 1950s Britain" Catherine Jolivet, 2017-07-05 During the years following World War II, debates about the British landscape fused with questions of national identity as the country reconstructed its sense of self. For better or for worse, artists, statesmen and ordinary citizens saw themselves reflected in the landscape and in turn helped to shape the way that others envisioned the land. While landscape art is frequently imagined in terms of painting, this book examines the role of landscape in terms of a broader definition of visual culture, to include the discussion not only of works of oil on canvas but also prints, sculpture, photography, advertising, fashion, journalism, artists' biographies and the multi-media stage of the national exhibition. Making extensive use of archival materials, newspaper reviews, radio broadcasts, interviews with artists, letters and exhibition planning documents, Catherine Jolivet explores the intersection of landscape art with a variety of discourses, including the role of women in contemporary society, the status of immigrant artists in Britain, developments in science and technology and the promotion of British art and culture abroad.
