Party Leadership and Revolutionary Power in China John W. Lewis, Party Leadership and Revolutionary Power in China, Party Leadership and Revolutionary Power in China John Wilson Lewis, 1970 Party Leadership and Revolutionary Power in China. Ed. by J.W. Lewis. [With Contris of C. Martin Wilbur, W.F. Dorrill, L. Schapiro A.o. With Pref. by S.R. Schram]. J. W. Lewis, C. Martin Wilbur, W. F. Dorrill, L. Schapiro, Stuart R. Schram, 1970 Party Leadership and Revolutionary Power in China John Wilson Lewis, 1970 China's Second Revolution Harry Harding, 2010-12-01 China has since 1976 been enmeshed in an extraordinary program of renewal and reform The obvious changes the T shirts blue jeans makeup and jewelry worn by Chinese youth the disco music blaring from radios and loudspeakers on Chinese streets the television antennas mushrooming from both urban apartment complexes and suburban peasant housing the bustling free markets selling meat vegetables and clothing in China's major cities reflect a fundamental shift in the government's policy toward the economy and political life Although doubts about the long term commitment to reform arose after the student protests in December 1986 and the dismissal of Party General Secretary Hu Yaobang in January 1987 the scope of reform has been so broad and the pace of change so rapid that the post Mao era fully warrants Deng Xiaoping's description of it as the second revolution undertaken by the Chinese Communist Party Organizing China Harry Harding, 1981-06-01 Since the establishment of the People's Republic in 1949 Chinese Communist leaders have constructed an administrative apparatus that has exercised broader and tighter control over Chinese society than any previous government in the country's history This is a history of the development of Chinese organizational policy a topic of constant concern and often strident debate from 1949 to the death of Mao Tse tung in 1976 The author argues that Chinese organizational policy has been controversial because of the complexity of administrative problems the effects of policy changes on the distribution of power and status and the philosophical dilemma of whether the efficiency of modern bureaucracy outweighs its social and political costs He also shows how extreme approaches such as demands during the Cultural Revolution that bureaucracy be destroyed altogether or proposals during the 1950s that the bureaucracy be rationalized have been repeatedly rejected in favor of a policy more in keeping with much of Chinese tradition to recruit officials on the basis of their political views subject them to ideological indoctrination and rely on mass campaigns to implement Party policy China's Ethical Revolution and Regaining Legitimacy Shaoying Zhang, Derek McGhee, 2017-05-11 This book examines the many ways in which the Communist Party in China is still revolutionary by focusing on how in recent years it has attempted to mobilize Party members to become ethical subjects In the context of the Party's history of the military revolution Cultural Revolution and Economic Reform or economic revolution the authors argue that under President Xi Jinping the Party has launched an ethical revolution within the Party for the sake of sustaining its legitimacy This book examines the various combined components of this ethical revolution including anti corruption anti four undesirable working styles and Mass Line Education programme

China's Quest For Independence Thomas Fingar, 2019-03-13 This examination of policy developments in the People's Republic of China since the Cultural Revolution addresses two central questions 1 how durable were foreign and domestic policies during the 1970s and 2 what is the relationship between foreign and domestic policy and between both of these policy areas and internal political maneuvering Studies of five broad policy areas reveal that most policies were very stable during this period and that foreign policy was linked to domestic issues and political competition only to the extent that it impinged on domestic interests The studies trace the evolution of policies on specific issues such as education foreign trade and military doctrine but they also evaluate these policies and decisions in the larger context to which they belong Key decisions at the start of the decade affected the evolution of policy in all areas and largely shaped the change from adherence to precepts of the Cultural Revolution to the conviction that economic and technical emphasis must displace efforts to achieve social equality in the short run if China is to become a secure and independent nation
