Pas De Calais 62:

The Arverni and Roman Wine Matthew Loughton, 2014-12-18 Large numbers of Greco Italic and Dressel 1 amphorae were exported to many parts of Gaul during the late Iron Age and they provide a major source of information on the development and growth of the Roman economy during the late Republican period

Beyond the Beach Stephen Bourque, 2018-04-15 An important rethinking of the Normandy war narrative Beyond the Beach examines the Allied air war against France in 1944 During this period General Dwight David Eisenhower as Supreme Allied Commander took control of all American British and Canadian air units and employed them for tactical and operational purposes over France rather than as a strategic force to attack targets deep in Germany Using bombers as his long range artillery he directed the destruction of bridges rail centers ports military installations and even French towns with the intent of preventing German reinforcements from interfering with Operation Neptune the Allied landings on the Normandy beaches Ultimately this air offensive resulted in the death of over 60 000 French civilians and an immense amount of damage to towns churches buildings and works of art This intense bombing operation conducted against a friendly occupied state resulted in a swath of physical and human destruction across northwest France that is rarely discussed as part of the D Day landings This book explores the relationship between ground and air operations and its effects on the French population It examines the three broad groups that the air operations involved the doctrine and equipment used by Allied air force leaders to implement Eisenhower s plans and each of the eight major operations called lines of effort that coordinated the employment of the thousands of fighters medium bombers and heavy bombers that prowled the French skies that spring and summer of 1944 Each of these sections discusses the operation s purpose conduct and effects upon both the military and the civilian targets Finally the book explores the short and long term effects of these operations and argues that this ignored narrative should be part of any history of the D Day landings

Movement, Exchange and Identity in Europe in the 2nd and 1st Millennia BC Anne Lehoërff, Marc Talon, 2017-07-31 This collection of papers by an international chort of contributors explores the nature of the maritime connections that appear to have existed in the Transmanche English Channel Zone during later prehistory Organised into three themes Movement and Identity in the Transmanche Zone Travel and exchange Identity and Landscape the papers seek to articulate notions of frontier mobility and identity from the end of the 3rd to the beginning of the 1st millennium BC a time when the archaeological evidence suggests that the sea facilitated connections between peoples on both sides of the Channel rather than acting as a barrier as it is so often perceived today Recent decades have since a massive increase in large scale excavation programmes on either side of the Channel in advance of major infra structure and urban development resulting in the acqusition of huge complex new datasets enabling new insights into later prehistoric life in this crucially important region Papers consider the role of several key archaeologists in transforming our appreciation of the connectivity of the sea in prehistory consider the extent to which the Channel zone developed into a closely unified cultural zone during later Bronze Age in terms of communities that serviced the movement of artefacts across the Channel with both sides sharing widely in the same artefacts and social practices examine funerary practices and settlement evidence and consider the relationship between communities in social cultural and ideological terms and consider mechanisms for the transmission of ideas and how they may be reflected in the archaeological record Brings together leading scholars from the UK and northern Europe in a thought provoking and revealing new examination of the relationship between communities in the Transmanche Zone in the Bronze and Iron Ages The premise is that the English Channel was a conduit for connectivity and exchange of ideas artefacts and social practices and rather than a barrier or frontier that had to be overcome before such connections could be fostered France, 1001 Sights James Maxwell Anderson, M. Sheridan Lea, 2002 This distinctive historical and archaeological guidebook to France introduces the reader and traveller to the palpable remains of past cultures that shaped the development of the modern country This book can be used as a field manual to readily find and explore France's ancient heritage or as a reference for those who cannot visit the sites but are interested in the legacy of the past Late Iron Age Gold Hoards from the Low Countries and the Caesarian Conquest of Northern Gaul Nico Roymans, Guido Creemers, Simone Scheers, 2012-05-14 Presentatie van acht recent ontdekte Keltische goudschatten uit het zuiden van Nederland en België bestaande uit gouden munten en gouden ornamenten die een bijdrage leveren aan de archeologie geschiedenis en numismatiek van de Keltische periode in de Lage Landen in de tijd vlak voor en tijdens de Romeinse verovering van Julius Caesar Proceedings of the International Association for Testing Materials ... International Association for Testing Materials, 1910 European Regions, 1870 - 2020 Jordi Martí-Henneberg, 2021-08-20 This volume explains the national and regional border modifications that took place in Europe from 1870 to 2020 It provides insights that allow us to understand boundary changes for several different levels of territorial organization The text describes the state formation process related to the regional administrative structures in each European country and offers insight into the degree of centralization historically by describing the extent of legislative autonomy at different administrative levels and the competences reserved for each of them The book sheds light on the complex regional organization of Europe and the difficulties its reform has faced The main audience will be academics and PhD Masters students working in a variety of geography fields and the maps included in each chapter will also be of interest to a broader audience including undergraduate and secondary school students wishing to better understand the political history of Europe The French Property Buyer's Handbook Natalie Avella, 2004-06 This essential new book takes you through all the stages of buying a house and moving to France covering everything a non French person needs to know about Buying a house in France choosing the right area the different property styles looking for the right property dealing with property agents building your own house arranging finance for the purchase negotiating the property transaction Moving to France moving into your new house getting all the paperwork right opening bank accounts and tax health and the French social security system running a gite business finding a job or starting a business in FrancePlus hundreds of tips and lots of advice on all those small matters that are key to making your purchase in France a success All this is explained in straight forward language supported by a wealth of tables contact details for further information and many case studies of people who have bought property in France Is this book for you The book is for anyone looking to buy a property in France to use as a holiday home to work from or to start a new life abroad It can be used as an active reference guide when on the ground in France getting up early for that 8am appointment with an immobilier But can also be used by people thinking about moving to France in the future but who are not quite ready to make the move yet This book highlights all the issues that you need to consider BULLETIN era and geographically from Africa to Europe and Asia Genie Civil ,1890 City Walls in Late Antiquity Emanuele Intagliata, Simon J. Barker, Christopher Courault, 2020-06-30 The construction of urban defences was one of the hallmarks of the late Roman and late antique periods 300 600 AD throughout the western and eastern empire City walls were the most significant construction projects of their time and they redefined the urban landscape Their appearance and monumental scale as well as the cost of labour and material are easily comparable to projects from the High Empire however urban circuits provided late antique towns with a new means of self representation While their final appearance and construction techniques varied greatly the cost involved and the dramatic impact that such projects had on the urban topography of late antique cities mark city walls as one of the most important urban initiatives of the period To date research on city walls in the two halves of the empire has highlighted chronological and regional variations enabling scholars to rethink how and why urban circuits were built and functioned in Late Antiquity Although these developments have made a significant contribution to the understanding of late antique city walls studies are often concerned with one single monument small group of monuments or a particular region and the issues raised do not usually lead to a broader perspective creating an artificial divide between east and west It is this broader understanding that this book seeks to provide The volume and its contributions arise from a conference held at the British School at Rome and the Swedish Institute of Classical Studies in Rome on June 20 21 2018 It includes articles from world leading experts in late antique history and archaeology and is based around important themes that emerged at the conference such as construction spolia use late antique architecture culture and urbanism empire wide changes in Late Antiquity and the perception of this practice by local inhabitants
