Justice for an Unjust Society H.P.P. (Hennie) Lötter, 2021-11-01 This book presents a theory of justice whereby people living in radically unjust societies may transform such societies in the direction of justice The identification of injustice is addressed since a radically unjust society may well conceal its injustice from its victims The book considers a range of moral and pragmatic requirements of political action in the transformation of society A special feature of this work of theory is that it is illustrated by troubling examples drawn from the history of South Africa The case made here is that justice is not just for just societies It is for all of us everywhere      Civil Society, Capitalism and the State Colin Tyler, 2012-11-30 Civil Society Capitalism and the State presents a critical reconstruction of the social and political facets of Thomas Hill Green's liberal socialism It explores the complex relationships Green sees between human nature personal freedom the common good rights and the state It explores Green's analysis of free exchange his critique of capitalism and his defence of trade union activity and the cooperative movement It establishes that Green gives only grudging support to welfarism which he saw as a conservative mechanism in effect if not conscious design It is shown that he believes state provision of welfare to be justified only to the extent that peasants and the proletariat lack a culture and institutions which enable them to assert themselves against abusive landlords and capitalists Ultimately it is shown that Green's guiding ideal is the creation of a eudaimonically enriching kingdom of ends which favours the creation of a dynamic and free society driven by mass participation through decentralised social and political institutions This book builds on Colin Tyler's The Metaphysics of Self-realisation and Freedom 2010 although it can also be read as a freestanding work      The Browning Society's Papers Browning Society (London, England), 1885      Proceedings of the American Antiquarian Society American Antiquarian Society, 1927

Gaudet, 2017-01-26 In the first century of the Common Era the Romans could boast of being the most pious society in the known world They possessed a highly structured societal organization with a well defined hierarchy where everyone knew their place and the personal and interpersonal duties associated therewith It was understood that their success was due in large part to maintaining a relationship with the gods Yet at the same time social inequality and lack of justice for its members was ubiquitous and merely part of the fabric of that society Into this milieu steps Saul of Tarsus later known as the Apostle Paul Based upon the authentic corpus of Paul a new utopian society was envisaged a society based on equality and justice for all not just for the elite This eschatological community is in sharp contrast with Imperial Rome Following the death of Paul writers invoking Paul's authority by claiming that their texts were authored by the apostle himself continued writing letters to various Christian communities However their texts differed in significant ways from Paul's vision Yet these corrupted texts have survived and influenced the development of Christianity for two millennia It is imperative to retrieve the true vision of Paul for a world in serious need of that eschatological vision      Transactions of the Royal Society of Edinburgh ,1864 List of fellows in v 1 5 7 16 20 30 32 33 35 41 45 continued since 1908 in the Proceedings v 28
