"Framing the Ocean, 1700 to the Present" Tricia Cusack, 2017-07-05 Before the eighteenth century the ocean was regarded as a repulsive and chaotic deep Despite reinvention as a zone of wonder and pleasure it continued to be viewed in the West and elsewhere as uninhabited empty space This collection spanning the eighteenth century to the present recasts the ocean as social space with particular reference to visual representations Part I focuses on mappings and crossings showing how the ocean may function as a liminal space between places and cultures but also connects and imbricates them Part II considers ships as microcosmic societies shaped for example by the purpose of the voyage the mores of shipboard life and cross cultural encounters Part III analyses narratives accreted to wrecks and rafts what has sunk or floats perilously and discusses attempts to recuperate plastic flotsam Part IV plumbs ocean depths to consider how underwater creatures have been depicted in relation to emergent disciplines of natural history and museology how mermaids have been reimagined as a metaphor of feminist transformation and how the symbolism of coral is deployed by contemporary artists This engaging and erudite volume will interest a range of scholars in humanities and social sciences including art and cultural historians cultural geographers and historians of empire travel and tourism Travel, Modernism and Modernity Robert Burden, 2016-03-09 Focusing on the significance of travel in Joseph Conrad E M Forster D H Lawrence Henry James and Edith Wharton Robert Burden shows how travel enabled a new consciousness of mobility and borders during the modernist period For these authors Burden suggests travel becomes a narrative paradigm and dominant trope by which they explore questions of identity and otherness related to deep seated concerns with the crisis of national cultural identity He pays particular attention to the important distinction between travel and tourism at the same time that he attends to the slippage between seeing and sightseeing between the local character and the stereotype between art and kitsch and between older and newer ways of storytelling in the representational crisis of modernism Burden argues that the greater awareness of cultural difference that characterizes both the travel writing and fiction of these expatriate writers became a defining feature of literary modernism resulting in a consciousness of cultural difference that challenged the ethnographic project of empire Travel Writing and Cultural Memory / Écriture du voyage et mémoire culturelle, 2021-11-08 The present volume looks at the relation between travel writing and cultural memory from a variety of perspectives ranging from theoretical concerns with genres and conventions to detailed analyses of single texts As befits the topic the contributions roam far and wide both geographically and historically Some detail early Portuguese voyages of discovery particularly to the East Others depict encounters between Early and not so early Modern Western travelers and their Other interlocutors Still others focus on travel writings as literature Voyages and voyaging in literature form the subject of the last category of essays gathered here Amongst the authors discussed are Fern o Mendes Pinto Jean de Sponde Furtado de Mendon a Sor Juana In z de la Cruz Elsa Morante Ingeborg Bachmann Sophia Andresen Paul Claudel Graham Greene Val ry Larbaud David Mour o Ferreira J M G le Cl zio Jos Saramago Michel Leiris and Claude L vi Strauss The volume concludes with an essay by the French Lebanese author Salah St ti Landscapes of Liminality Dara Downey, Ian Kinane, Elizabeth Parker, 2016-11-16 Landscapes of Liminality expands upon existing notions of spatial practice and spatial theory and examines more intricately the contingent notion of liminality as a space of in between ness that avoids either essentialism or stasis It capitalises on the extensive research that has already been undertaken in this area and elaborates on the increasingly important and interrelated notion of liminality within contemporary discussions of spatial practice and theories of place Bringing together international scholarship the book offers a broad range of cross disciplinary approaches to theories of liminality including literary studies cultural studies human geography social studies and art and design The volume offers a timely and fascinating intervention which will help in shaping current debates concerning landscape theory spatial practice and discussions of liminality

Emotion in Motion Mike Robinson, David Picard, 2016-05-06 What happens when tourists scream with fear shout with anger and frustration weep with joy and delight or even faint in the face of revealed beauty How can certain sites affect some tourists so deeply that they require hospitalisation and psychiatric treatment What are the inner contours of tourist experience and how does it relate to specific emotional cultures What are the consequences of the emotional cultures of tourists upon destinations How are differences in emotional culture mobilized and played out in the transnational contact zones of international tourism While many books have engaged with the structural frames of tourist practice and experience this is the first to deal with the emotional dimensions of tourism travel and contact and the ways in which they can transform tourists destinations and travel cultures through emotional engagements The book brings together an international array of scholars from anthropology psychiatry history cultural geography and critical tourism studies to explore how the movement to and through the realms of exotic people wild nature's subliminal art spirit worlds metropolitan cities and sexualised others variably provoke emotions peak experiences travel syndromes and inner dialogues The authors show how tourism challenges us to engage with concepts of self other time nature sex the body and death Through a set of ethnographic and historic cases they demonstrate that such engagements usually have little to do with the actual destination but rather are deeply anchored in personal memories repressed fears and desires and the collective imaginaries of our societies Going Abroad Rob

Gordon,2015-11-17 Increasingly students from the affluent countries are going abroad as part of their educational experience Although students see these experiences as invaluable and believe that they have learned a lot the anthropological literature suggests the opposite that travel abroad has a greater impact on the hosts than on the visitors and that indeed travel abroad far from leading to students becoming more open minded or learning about the other can reinforce their stereotypes The standards in anthropology teach humility and the ability to learn from those in the host country This short book can be read pre departure and while abroad to provide the reader the practical and philosophical tools needed to create an enriched and mind broadening experience Rites of Passage in Postcolonial Women's Writing Pauline Dodgson-Katiyo,Gina

Education, 1850-1970 E. Lisa Panayotidis,Paul Stortz,2017-09-19 This edited collection illustrates the way in which women's experiences of academe could be both contextually diverse but historically and culturally similar It looks at both the micro individual women and universities and macro level comparative analyses among regions and countries within regional national trans national and international contexts The contributors integrally advance knowledge about the university in history by exploring the intersections of the lived experiences of women students and professors practices of co education and intellectual and academic cultures They also raise important questions about the complementary and multidirectional flow and exchange of academic knowledge and information among gender groups across programmes disciplines and universities Historical inquiry and interpretation serve as efficacious ways with which to understand contemporary events and discourses in higher education and more broadly in community and society This book will provide important historical contexts for current debates about the numerical dominance and significance of women in higher education and the tensions
