Finding Purple America Jon Smith, 2013-05-01 The new southern studies has had an uneasy relationship with both American studies and the old southern studies In Finding Purple America Jon Smith one of the founders of the new movement locates the source of that unease in the fundamentally antimodern fantasies of both older fields The old southern studies tends to view modernity as a threat to a mystic southern essence a dangerous outside force taking the form of everything from a bulldozer revolution to a national project of forgetting Since the rise of the New Americanists American studies has also imagined itself to be in a permanent crisis mode seeking to affiliate the field and the national essence with youth countercultures that sixties leftists once imagined to be the future Such fantasies Smith argues have resulted in an old southern studies that cannot understand places like Birmingham or Atlanta or cities at all and an American studies that cannot understand red states Most Americans live in neither a comforting premodern Mayberry nor an exciting postmodern Los Angeles but rather in what postcolonialists call alternative modernities and hybrid cultures whose relationships to past and future to stability and change are complex and ambivalent Looking at how the South has played in global metropolitan pop culture since the nineties and at how southern popular and high culture alike have in fact repeatedly embraced urban modernity Smith masterfully weaves together postcolonial theory cultural studies Lacanian psychoanalysis and surprisingly marketing theory to open up the inconveniently in between purple spaces and places that Americanist and southernist fantasies about who we are have so long sought to foreclose

Coming of Age in Contemporary American Fiction Kenneth Millard,2007-04-18 This book explores the ways in which a range of recent American novelists have handled the genre of the coming of age novel or the Bildungsroman Novels of this genre characteristically dramatise the vicissitudes of growing up and the trials and tribulations of young adulthood often presented through depictions of immediate family relationships and other social structures This book considers a variety of different American cultures in terms of race class and gender and a range of contemporary coming of age novels so that aesthetic judgements about the fiction might be made in the context of the social history that fiction represents A series of questions are asked Does the coming of age moment in these novels coincide with an interpretation of the fall of America What kind of national commentary does it therefore facilitate Is the Bildungsroman a quintessentially American genre What can it usefully tell us about contemporary American culture Although the focus is on the conte
