Security In South Asia Comprehensive And Cooperative:

Security in South Asia Dipankar Banerjee, 1999 Ten years after the end of the Cold War South Asia stands almost alone among regions where the potential for conflict remains high The situation was further aggravated by the nuclear tests in the region in May 1998 This has led to avoidable tensions high military spending and lack of economic co operation among its member countries As a result South Asia is today among the poorest regions in the world with human development indices even worse than Sub Saharan Africa It is imperative that this cycle of tension and conflict is broken The only way out is to develop alternative approaches to security One such alternative is comprehensive and co operative security Ideas which have emerged in recent years in Europe and Asia may be adapted usefully in South Asia This book is an attempt at understanding the security concerns of individual countries of South Asia Development and Security in Southeast Asia Carolina G. India and Southeast Asia Sudhir Devare, 2003-08-01 There is a growing dialogue between India and Southeast Asia From a marginal relationship during the Cold War days to the participation of India at the East Asia summit in December 2005 has been a long journey In the context of the geopolitical situation in the Asia Pacific in the post September 11 period the security dimension between India and Southeast Asia cannot be overemphasized With the continued U S preponderance in the region and China s phenomenal rise the countries of Southeast Asia and India have an opportunity to evolve a co operative relationship not only with one another but also with the major powers of the region This book examines the areas of comprehensive security and the growing understanding between India and Southeast Asia where there is less divergence and greater convergence The author argues that India Southeast Asia security convergence is not and should not be aimed at any particular country On an optimistic note he concludes that such convergence will contribute to creating harmony among the major powers of Asia to make the twenty first century the e Asian centurye The Arms Dynamic in South-East Asia During the Second Cold War Mark. G Rolls, 2017-11-30 This title was first published in 2002 This work uses the concept of the arms dynamic to identify and assess the various factors which influenced arms acquisitions of Southeast Asian states during the second Cold War period from 1979 to 1989 providing an essential basis for understanding contemporary developments The book provides a comprehensive and systematic explanation of the reasons for arms purchases in SE Asia during the 1980s and aims to fill a gap in the literature by fully exploring arms procurement processes in the region prior to the end of the Cold War Terrorism and Violence in Southeast Asia Paul J. Smith, 2015-03-26 This timely work examines the scale and root causes of terrorism across Southeast Asia including the role of al Qaeda s ascendancy in the region It begins with an overview of the analytical and theoretical framework for discussing the subject Individual chapters then examine terrorist activities from both functional and country specific perspectives The book traces fundamental linkages between terrorism and security issues such as illegal immigration narcotics trafficking and other criminal activity In addition it considers the issue of convergence the growing connection between criminal groups and terrorism and how this may facilitate future violence Written by a range of experts in the field the individual chapters reflect a variety of perspectives The contributions fall into two broad categories chapters that directly address terrorism the groups their ideologies their modus operandi their origins and state responses to them and chapters that address the enabling environment that exists in Southeast Asia the role of transnational crime porous borders convergence between terrorism and crime Conflict Resolution and Regional Cooperation in South Asia Pervaiz Iqbal Cheema, Imtiaz H. Human Rights and Participatory Politics in Southeast Asia Catherine Renshaw, 2019-02-18 In Human Rights and Participatory Politics in Southeast Asia Catherine Renshaw recounts an extraordinary period of human rights institution building in Southeast Asia She begins her account in 2007 when the ten members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN signed the ASEAN charter committing members for the first time to principles of human rights democracy and the rule of law In 2009 the ASEAN Intergovernmental Commission on Human Rights was established with a mandate to uphold internationally recognized human rights standards In 2013 the ASEAN Human Rights Declaration was adopted as a framework for human rights cooperation in the region and a mechanism for ASEAN community building Renshaw explains why these developments emerged when they did and assesses the impact of these institutions in the first decade of their existence In her examination of ASEAN Renshaw asks how human rights can be implemented in and between states that are politically diverse Vietnam and Laos are Communist Brunei Darussalam is an Islamic sultanate Myanmar is in transition from a military dictatorship the Philippines and Indonesia are established multiparty democracies while the remaining members are less easily defined Renshaw cautions that ASEAN is limited in its ability to shape the practices of its members because it lacks a preponderance of democratic states However she concludes that in the absence of a global legalized human rights order the most significant practical advancements in the promotion of human rights have emerged from regional institutions such as the ASEAN

Southeast Asia between China and Japan Lam Peng Er, Victor Teo, 2011-11-15 Triangular relations which frame China and Japan as two sides of an isosceles triangle usually focus on the United States as the significant third side This edited book examines another relatively underexplored set of triangular relations those between China Japan and Southeast Asia The region comprised of eleven small and medium size states is often considered inconsequential in the tempestuous world of international politics where political clout economic prowess military strength and soft power matter most Often seen as easily dominated by extra regional great powers this volume reconsiders the region's relationship with China and Japan their two Asian neighbours to the northeast which also happen to be the world's second and third largest economies While China and Japan do compete for turf in Southeast Asia states in the region do not perceive themselves as strategic pawns of these two great Asian powers but instead as proactively engaging China and Japan in the region The country specific case studies of this book collectively support the thesis that the Southeast Asian states actively seek to manoeuvre between China and Japan for their own advantage and at the same time grapple with developments in Northeast Asia through regional integration efforts Through the establishment of benchmark norms and values Southeast Asia attempts to socialise China and Japan and other external powers to the ASEAN way Indeed Southeast Asia as a region is now the driver of East Asian multilateralism and regionalism and the East Asian reality is that Southeast Asia is a major political economic and cultural player in its own right vis vis the great powers
