Subject Cataloging Division,1980 A View from the West Vicki Cummings,2009-11-13 At the heart of this study are the early Neolithic chambered tombs of the Irish Sea zone defined as west Wales the west coast of northern Britain coastal south and western Scotland the western isles and the Isle of Man and the eastern coast of Ireland In order to understand these monuments there must be a broader consideration of their landscape settings The landscape setting of the chambered tombs is considered in detail both overall and through a number of specific case studies incorporating a much wider area than has been previously considered Cummings investigates the background against which the Neolithic began in the Irish Sea zone and what led to the adoption of Neolithic practices such as the construction of monuments Following on from this she considers what the chambered tombs and landscape can add to our understanding of the Mesolithic Neolithic transition This volume aims to incorporate landscape analysis into a broader understanding of the Neolithic sequence in this area and beyond It will provide an introduction to the Mesolithic and Neolithic of the Irish Sea zone as well as a summary of previous work on this subject It also offers a starting point for future research and a better understanding of this area Pottery Making Techniques Anderson Turner,2004 Articles on pottery techniques chosen from the early issues of Pottery making illustrated The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E. Arnold, 2015-02-15 In The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E. Arnold continues his unique approach to ceramic ethnoarchaeology tracing the history of potters in Ticul Yucatán and their production space over a period of more than four decades This follow up to his 2008 work Social Change and the Evolution of Ceramic Production and Distribution uses narrative to trace the changes in production personnel and their spatial organization through the changes in production organization in Ticul Although several kinds of production units developed households were the most persistent units of production in spite of massive social change and the reorientation of pottery production to the tourist market Entrepreneurial workshops government sponsored workshops and workshops attached to tourist hotels developed more recently but were short lived whereas pottery making households extended deep into the nineteenth century Through this continuity and change intermittent crafting multi crafting and potters increased management of economic risk also factored into the development of the production organization in Ticul Illustrated with more than 100 images of production units The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community is an important contribution to the understanding of ceramic production Scholars with interests in craft specialization craft production and demography as well as specialists in Mesoamerican archaeology anthropology history and economy will find this volume especially useful Sixteenth Century Maiolica Pottery in the Valley of Mexico Florence C. Lister, Robert H. Lister, 2022-05-03 The Anthropological Papers of the University of Arizona is a peer reviewed monograph series sponsored by the School of Anthropology Established in 1959 the series publishes archaeological and ethnographic papers that use contemporary method and theory to investigate problems of anthropological importance in the southwestern United States Mexico and related areas Ceramic Theory and Cultural Process Dean E. Arnold, 1988-06-16 A theory of ceramics that elucidates the complex relationship between culture pottery and society Maya Potters' Indigenous Knowledge Dean E. Arnold, 2018-02-07 Based on fieldwork and reflection over a period of almost fifty years Maya Potters' Indigenous Knowledge utilizes engagement theory to describe the indigenous knowledge of traditional Maya potters in Ticul Yucatán Mexico In this heavily illustrated narrative account Dean E. Arnold examines craftspeople's knowledge and skills their engagement with their natural and social environments the raw materials they use for their craft and their process for making pottery Following Lambros Malafouris Tim Ingold and Colin Renfrew Arnold argues that potters' indigenous knowledge is not just in their minds but extends to their engagement with the environment raw materials and the pottery making process itself and is recursively affected by visual and tactile feedback Pottery is not just an expression of a mental template but also involves the interaction of cognitive categories embodied muscular patterns and the engagement of those categories and skills with the production process Indigenous knowledge is thus a product of the interaction of mind and material of mental categories and action and of cognition and sensory engagement the interaction of both human and material agency Engagement theory has become an important theoretical approach and indigenous knowledge as cultural heritage is the focus of much current research in anthropology archaeology and cultural resource management While Dean Arnold s previous work has been significant in ceramic ethnoarchaeology Maya Potters Indigenous Knowledge goes further providing new evidence and opening up different concepts and approaches to understanding practical processes It will be of interest to a wide variety of researchers in Maya studies material culture material sciences ceramic ecology and ethnoarchaeology Ceramics for Kids Mary Ellis,2004 Provides an introduction to clay and pottery plus instructions for twenty five projects using various methods such as a pinch and coil Japanese tea bowl and a press molded hanging bird bath White on New York Corporations Frank White,1929 Clay Products Cyclopedia ,1922 The Complete Idiot's Guide to Crafts with Kids Georgene Lockwood,1998 Hundreds of budget friendly projects include edible homemade goodies holiday decorations toys musical instruments and gifts made from wood metal glass leather clay and found objects South Asian Folklore Peter J.
