Seeing Slowly Michael Findlay, 2017-09-26 When it comes to viewing art living in the information age is not necessarily a benefit So argues Michael Findlay in this book that encourages a new way of looking at art Much of this thinking involves stripping away what we have been taught and instead trusting our own instincts opinions and reactions Including reproductions of works by Mark Rothko Paul Klee Joan Mir Jacob Lawrence and other modern and contemporary masters this book takes readers on a journey through modern art Chapters such as What Is a Work of Art Can We Look and See at the Same Time and Real Connoisseurs Are Not Snobs not only give readers the confidence to form their own opinions but also encourages them to make connections that spark curiosity intellect and imagination The most important thing for us to grasp writes Findlay is that the essence of a great work of art is inert until it is seen Our engagement with the work of art liberates its essence After reading this book even the most intimidated art viewer will enter a museum or gallery feeling more confident and leave it feeling enriched and inspired

Evaluative Perception Anna Bergqvist, Robert Cowan, 2018-06-06 Evaluation is ubiquitous Indeed it isn't an exaggeration to say that we assess actions character events and objects as good cruel beautiful etc almost every day of our lives Although evaluative judgement for instance judging that an institution is unjust is usually regarded as the paradigm of evaluation it has been thought by some philosophers that a distinctive and significant kind of evaluation is perceptual For example in aesthetics some have claimed that adequate aesthetic judgement must be grounded in the appreciator's first hand perceptual experience of the item judged In ethics reference to the existence and importance of something like ethical perception is found in a number of traditions for example in virtue ethics and sentimentalism This volume brings together philosophers working in aesthetics epistemology ethics philosophy of mind and value theory to investigate what we call evaluative perception Specifically they engage with 1 Questions regarding the existence and nature of evaluative perception Are there perceptual experiences of values If so what is their nature Are perceptual experiences of values sui generis Are values necessary for certain kinds of perceptual experience 2 Questions about epistemology Can evaluative perceptual experiences ever justify evaluative judgements Are perceptual experiences of values necessary for certain kinds of justified evaluative judgements 3 Questions about value theory Is the existence of evaluative perceptual experience supported or undermined by particular views in value theory Are particular views in value theory supported or undermined by the existence of evaluative perceptual experience

The Epistemology of Reading and Interpretation René van Woudenberg, 2021-09-16 Reading and textual interpretation are ordinary human activities performed inside as well as outside academia but precisely how they function as unique sources of knowledge is not well understood In this book Ren van Woudenberg explores the nature of reading and how it is distinct from perception and attending to testimony which are two widely acknowledged knowledge sources After distinguishing seven accounts of interpretation van Woudenberg discusses the question of whether all reading inevitably involves interpretation and shows that although reading and interpretation often go together they are distinct activities He goes on to argue that both reading and interpretation can be paths to realistically conceived truth and explains the conditions under which we are justified in believing that they do indeed lead us to the truth Along the way he offers clear and novel analyses of reading meaning interpretation and interpretative knowledge

Armento, 2025-07-30 As the Seeing Eye Girl for her blind artistic and mentally ill mother Beverly Armento was intimately connected with and responsible for her even though her mother physically and emotionally abused her She was Strong Beverly at school excellent in academics and mentored by caring teachers but at home she was Weak Beverly cowed by her mother's rage and delusions Beverly's mother regained her sight with two corneal transplants in 1950 and went on to enjoy a moment of fame as an artist but these positive turns did nothing to stop her disintegration into her delusional world of communists radiation and lurking Italians To survive Beverly had to be resilient and hopeful that better days could be ahead But first she had to confront essential ethical issues about her caregiving role in her family In this emotional memoir Beverly shares the coping strategies she invented to get herself through the trials of her young life and the ways in which school and church served as refuges over the course of her journey Breaking the psychological chains that bound her to her mother would prove to be the most difficult challenge of her life and ultimately the most liberating one
