Serial Verb Constructions A Crosslinguistic Typology:

  Serial Verb Constructions Aleksandra I︠U︡r′evna Aĭkhenval′d,R.M.W. Dixon,2006 A serial verb construction is a sequence of verbs which acts together as one This oustanding book is the first to study the phenomenon across languages of different typological and genetic profiles The authors all experienced linguistic fieldworkers follow a unified typological approach and avoid formalisms   Serial Verbs in White Hmong Nerida Jarkey,2015-06-02 In Serial Verbs in White Hmong Nerida Jarkey investigates verb serialization a highly productive grammatical strategy in this dynamic Southeast Asian language in which multiple verbs are simply concatenated within a single clause to depict a single event The investigation identifies four major types of serial verb construction SVC in White Hmong and finds that the key function of all these types is to depict a single event in an elaborate and vivid way a much favoured method of description in this language These findings concerning the nature and function of SVCs in White Hmong contribute to broader discussions on the nature of events as both cognitive and cultural constructs   Multi-verb Constructions Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald,Pieter Muysken,Joshua Birchall,2010-12-17 This book surveys multi verb constructions in multiple languages from the Americas showing a very rich tapestry of typologically unusual constructions including serial verbs auxiliaries co verbs phasal verbs Where possible a diachronic perspectrive is offered   Serial Verbs Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald,2018-10-18 This book provides an in depth typological account of the forms functions and histories of serial verb constructions Serial verbs in which several verbs combine to form a single predicate describe what is conceptualized as a single event The verbs in the construction have the same tense aspect mood modality and evidentiality values cannot be negated or questioned separately and usually share the same subject and object They are a powerful means of portraying various facets of one event and can express grammatical meanings such as aspect direction and causation particularly in languages where few other means are available In this volume Alexandra Aikhenvald seeks to answer unresolved questions such as What are the parameters of variation in serial verbs How do serial verbs differ from other superficially similar multi verb constructions How do serial verbs emerge and what happens to them over time What role do they play in the representation of event structure The book uses an inductively based framework for the analysis and draws on data from languages with different typological profiles and genetic affiliations It will be of interest to researchers and students from a wide range of fields of linguistics especially typology anthropological linguistics and language contact   Serial Verbs Aleksandra I︠U︡r′evna Aĭkhenval′d,2018 This book provides an in depth typological account of the forms functions and histories of serial verb constructions in which several verbs combine to form a single predicate It uses an inductively based framework for the analysis and draws on data from languages with different typological profiles and genetic affiliations   Associated Motion Antoine Guillaume,Harold Koch,2021-03-08 This volume is the first book length presentation of the grammatical category of Associated Motion It provides a framework for understanding a grammatical phenomenon which though present in many languages has gone unrecognized until recently

Previously known primarily from languages of Australia and South America grammatical AM marking has now been identified in languages from most parts of the world except Europe and is becoming an important topic in linguistic typology The chapters provide a thorough introduction to the subject discussion of the relation between AM and related grammatical concepts detailed descriptions of AM in a wide range of the world s languages and surveys of AM in particular language families and areas A Grammar of Goemai Birgit Hellwig,2011-09-29 This is the first description of Goemai a West Chadic language of Nigeria Goemai is spoken in a language contact area and this contact has shaped Goemai grammar to the extent that it can be considered a fairly untypical Chadic language The grammar presents the structure of the present day language relates it to its diachronic sources and adds a semantic perspective to the description The Manambu Language of East Sepik, Papua New Guinea Aleksandra I␟U␟rʹevna Aĭkhenvalʹd,Jacklyn Yuamali Ala,Pauline Agnes Luma Laki,2008-09-04 This book presents the first comprehensive description of the Manambu language of Papua New Guinea Manambu belongs to the Ndu language family and is spoken by about 2 500 people in five villages in East Sepik Province Ambunti district The book is based entirely on the author s fieldwork Clause Chaining in the Languages of the World Hannah S. Sarvasy,Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald,2025-02-25 The languages of the world make use of a variety of techniques for describing events and putting sentences together This volume takes a typological approach to clause chaining a fascinating feature of the grammar of hundreds of languages outside Europe especially in the Asia Pacific region East Africa across Central Asia and the Americas Clause chains consist of several dependent clauses and one main clause and are used to organize discourse and to foreground or background events and participants they often go together with switch reference marking an indication of whether upcoming subjects will be co referential with preceding subjects or not The introductory chapter features a discussion of the typological properties of clause chaining with a brief overview of previous approaches to and investigations of clause chains followed by an overview of their recurrent grammatical features it ends with an appendix featuring notes for fieldworkers The first part of the book explores general issues in clause chaining including prosody acquisition and language contact and history later parts then examine clause chaining and related phenomena in a wide range of languages from around the world Caused Accompanied Motion Anna Margetts,Sonja Riesberg,Birgit Hellwig,2022-05-15 This volume investigates the linguistic expression of directed caused accompanied motion events including verbal concepts like BRING and TAKE Contributions explore how speakers conceptualise and describe these events across areally genetically and typologically diverse languages of the Americas Austronesia and Papua The chapters investigate such events on the basis of spoken language corpora of endangered underdescribed languages and in this way the volume showcases the importance of documentary linguistics for linguistic typology The semantic domain of directed caused accompanied motion shows considerable crosslinguistic variation in how meaning components are conflated within single lexemes or distributed across morphemes or clauses The volume presents a typology of common patterns and constraints in the linguistic expression of these events The study of crosslinguistic event encoding provided in this volume contributes to our understanding of the nature extent and limits of linguistic and cognitive diversity Information Structure and Reference Tracking in Complex Sentences Rik van Gijn,Jeremy Hammond,Dejan Mati?,Saskia van Putten,Ana Vilacy Galucio,2014-03-15 This volume is dedicated to exploring the crossroads where complex sentences and information management more specifically information structure and reference tracking come together Complex sentences are a highly relevant but understudied domain for studying notions of IS and RT On the one hand a complex sentence can be studied as a mini unit of discourse consisting of two or more elements describing events situations or processes with its own internal information structural and referential organization On the other hand complex sentences can be studied as parts of larger discourse structures such as narratives or conversations in terms of how their information structural characteristics relate to this wider context The book offers new perspectives for the study of the interaction between complex sentences and information management and moreover adds typological breadth by focusing on lesser studied languages from several parts of the world Languages of Mainland Southeast Asia N.J. Enfield,Bernard Comrie,2015-03-30 The studies in this book represent the rich diverse and substantial research being conducted today in the linguistics of Mainland Southeast Asia The chapters cover a broad scope Several studies address questions of language relatedness often challenging conventional assumptions about the status of language contact as an explanatory factor in accounting for linguistic similarities Several address the question of Mainland Southeast Asia as a linguistic area exploring new ways to imagine and define the boundaries and indeed the boundedness of a Mainland Southeast Asia area Two contributions rethink the received notion of the sesquisyllable with new empirical and theoretical angles And a set of chapters explores topics in the morphology and syntax of the region s languages sometimes challenging orthodox assumptions and claims about what a typical language of Mainland Southeast Asia is like Written by leading researchers in the field and with a substantial overview of current knowledge and new directions by the volume editors N J Enfield and Bernard Comrie this book will serve as an authoritative source on where the linguistics of Mainland Southeast Asia is at and where it is heading Coding Participant Marking Gerrit J. Dimmendaal,2009-04-22 Whereas Africa as a typological area is often associated with extensive verb morphology and verb serialization this collection of studies shows that there is tremendous typological diversity at the clausal level Verb serialization in the Khoisan area contrasts with extensive case marking in languages of northeastern Africa which also use converbs and light verb plus coverb constructions Although the categorial distinction between nouns and verbs is generally clear in African languages a number of them nevertheless provide intricate analytical challenges in this respect Whereas some languages are strongly head marking at the clausal level others manifest an interesting mixture of alternative strategies for the coding of participants The analysis of information packaging and related issues such as split ergativity Differential Object Marking and discourse configurational properties also play a role in several contributions The collection contains not only innovative analyses for the respective language families these languages belong to but also material relevant for the current debate in theoretical linguistics concerning lexical specification as against construction based approaches towards argument structure Pre-Historical Language Contact in Peruvian Amazonia Luis Miguel Rojas-Berscia,2021-05-27 South America was populated relatively recently probably around 15 000 years ago Yet instead of finding a relatively small number of language families we find some 118 genealogical units So far the historical processes that underlie the current picture are not yet fully understood This book represents a preliminary attempt at understanding the socio historical dynamics behind language diversification in the region focusing on the Kawapanan languages particularly on Shawi The book provides an introduction to the ideas behind the flux approach of Dynamic linguistics and later concentrates on prehistorical language contact specifically in the northern Peruvian Andean sphere The number of studies presented shed light on a layered picture in which a number of Kawapanan lects were used in non polyglosic multilingual settings The book explores the potential contact relationships between Kawapanan languages Quechuan Aymaran Chachapuya Chol n Hibito Arawak Carib and Puelche The analysis draws on data collected in the field over a period of eight years 2012 2020 with both Shawi and Shiwilu speakers and includes the first comprehensive grammar sketch of Shawi The Languages and Linguistics of Mainland Southeast Asia Paul Sidwell,Mathias Jenny,2021-08-23 The handbook will offer a survey of the field of linguistics in the early 21st century for the Southeast Asian Linguistic Area The last half century has seen a great increase in work on language contact work in genetic theoretical and descriptive linguistics and since the 1990s especially documentation of endangered languages The book will provide an account of work in these areas focusing on the achievements of SEAsian linguistics as well as the challenges and unresolved issues and provide a survey of the relevant major publications and other available resources We will address Survey of the languages of the area organized along genetic lines with discussion of relevant political and cultural background issues Theoretical descriptive and typological issues Genetic classification and historical linguistics Areal and contact linguistics Other areas of interest such as sociolinguistics semantics writing systems etc Resources major monographs and monograph series dictionaries journals electronic data bases etc Grammar sketches of languages representative of the genetic and structural diversity of the region African languages from a Role and Reference Grammar perspective Jens Fleischhauer,Claudius Patrick Kihara,2023-05-08 The volume is a collection of papers which apply Role Reference Grammar RRG to African languages RRG is a functional theory of syntax which has been developed on the basis of two leading questions First how would a syntactic theory look like which starts from exotic languages rather than English Second how can the interaction between syntax semantics and pragmatics in different grammatical systems best modelled and explained Although RRG took linguistic diversity serious from its very beginning African languages have been underrepresented in the development of the theory Given the sheer number African languages deserve a wider coverage in a syntactic theory which takes linguistic diversity seriously The volume is intended to fill this gap and comprises a selection of papers which investigate different aspects related to the syntax semantics pragmatics interface of different African languages This includes argument doubling and dislocation in iziZulu complex referential phrases in G k y serial verb constructions in Igbo locative complements in Hausa and Zarma Chiine and focus constructions in Emai The papers will extent the current RRG approach to new languages and phenomena The Cognitive Variation of Semantic Structures Prakash Mondal,2024-03-12 This book explores the cognitive constraints and principles of variation in structures of linguistic meaning across languages It unifies cognitive semantic representations with formal semantic representations to make a unique contribution to the study of typological generalizations and universals in natural language semantics This unified approach not only helps reveal why semantic structures have the observed variation they have but also sheds light on the compelling cognitive and formal regularities and patterns in the variation of linguistic semantics The book also advances the general principles of a cognitively oriented semantic typology Lucid and topical the book will be an indispensable resource for students and researchers of language typology linguistics cognitive linguistics and semantics It will also be of interest to theoretical linguists of both cognitivist and formalist schools The Oxford Handbook of Polysynthesis Michael Fortescue,Marianne Mithun,Nicholas Evans,2017-09-28 This handbook offers an extensive crosslinguistic and cross theoretical survey of polysynthetic languages in which single multi morpheme verb forms can express what would be whole sentences in English These languages and the problems they raise for linguistic analyses have long featured prominently in language descriptions and yet the essence of polysynthesis remains under discussion right down to whether it delineates a distinct coherent type rather than an assortment of frequently co occurring traits Chapters in the first part of the handbook relate polysynthesis to other issues central to linguistics such as complexity the definition of the word the nature of the lexicon idiomaticity and to typological features such as argument structure and head marking Part two contains areal studies of those geographical regions of the world where polysynthesis is particularly common such as the Arctic and Sub Arctic and northern Australia The third part examines diachronic topics such as language contact and language obsolence while part four looks at acquisition issues in different polysynthetic languages Finally part five contains detailed grammatical descriptions of over twenty languages which have been characterized as polysynthetic with special attention given to the presence or absence of potentially criterial features The Anatomy of Avoidance R. M. W. Dixon,2025-05-19 Speakers of Dyirbal in North Queensland Australia have an everyday language style which has been well described They also have an avoidance style called Jalnguy which must be used in the presence of certain tabooed kin such as the mother in law Jalnguy has the same grammar and phonology as the everyday style but the vocabularies are entirely different Jalnguy has only about one sixth as many lexemes as the everyday style with various techniques used to create a Jalnguy correspondent for each everyday style word The underlying semantic system of Dyirbal is thus realised at two levels of generality and is revealed through detailed study of the correspondences between them This monograph is the first comprehensive study of this in law avoidance language providing fascinating new insights into register variation and the complexities of kinship in Australian languages A New Grammar of Dyirbal R. M. W. Dixon,2023-01-19 This book offers a comprehensive contemporary grammar of the Dyirbal language of North Queensland It includes updated analyses of key features of the language based on recent theoretical advances and draws on the author s detailed research over the last 50 years and more
