Party Lines Competition Partisanship And Congressional Redistricting:

Party Lines Thomas E. Mann, Bruce E. Cain, 2008-05-31 The legitimacy of the American electoral system depends on sustaining reasonable levels of fairness accountability responsiveness and common sense Recent Congressional elections fly in the face of those requirements however with a startling lack of competition growing ideological polarization and a fierce struggle between the parties to manipulate the electoral rules of the game Party Lines addresses these problems head on in an authoritative and timely analysis of redistricting in the United States The practice of state legislatures redrawing district lines after the decennial census has long been a controversial aspect of our governing system Recent developments have added new urgency to earlier debates The sorry spectacle of mid decade partisan gerrymandering in Texas renewed public attention to the potential problems of redistricting reinforcing the view that it is unfairly dominated by self serving elected officials and parties The perfunctory character of Congressional elections is another growing problem in 2002 only four House incumbents were defeated in the general election the lowest in American history Despite a hotly contested presidential contest in 2004 that number increased by only three In Party Lines eminent political analysts explain the legal and political history of redistricting since the one person one vote revolution in the 1960s and place it in the larger context of American politics The authors document the impact of redistricting on competition polarization and partisan fairness and they assess the role technology played in the redistricting process The final chapter analyzes options for reform including most importantly the use of independent redistricting commissions as an alternative to the normal state legislative process Redistricting reform is no panacea but it is a start toward ensuring that American voters still have the largest say in who will represent them Contributors include Micah

Race and Partisanship in California Redistricting Olivier Richomme, 2019-04-26 Race and Partisanship in California Redistricting From the 1965 Voting Rights Act to Present studies redistricting and its evolution in California since the passage of the 1965 Voting Rights Act It poses the question What is the interactive play of race and partisanship in redefining the meaning of political representation through redistricting Unlike other studies of redistricting it focuses not on the South but on the West not on White versus Black but on the difficulties of diversity It tells the story of redistricting in California which has now become one of the most left leaning states and is considered a harbinger of political trends in the United States Ultimately this is a book that looks forward by looking backward at the tug and pull of redistricting efforts aimed at ensuring greater equality in a racially diverse democracy and asks What is the role played by race and partisanship in the voting rights revolution How does that vary far from the traditional flashpoints of American race relations What does that tell us about the redefinition of political representation in the past half century And most crucially what does it foretell for the next half century

Redistricting and Legislative Partisanship Eric McGhee, 2008 Reapportionment and Redistricting in the West Gary F. Moncrief, 2011-01-01 In Reapportionment and Redistricting in the West Gary F Moncrief brings together some of the best known scholars in American state and electoral politics to explore the unique processes and problems of redistricting in the western United States. These political scientists examine the specific challenges facing western states in ensuring fair and balanced political representation. Western states tend to be geographically large and experiencing rapid population growth and the chapters in this enlightening volume discuss the changing demographics in western states paying special attention to the rise in the Latino population and the effect this has had on reapportionment and redistricting. They describe the ways in which some of these states achieve redistricting through independent redistricting commissions a process rarely found in other regions and they provide policy prescriptions for the future.

The Oxford Handbook of the American Congress Eric Schickler, Frances E. Lee, 2013-03-14

No legislature in the world has a greater influence over its nation's public affairs than the US Congress. The Congress's centrality in the US system of government has placed research on Congress at the heart of scholarship on American politics. Generations of American government scholars working in a wide range of methodological traditions have focused their analysis on understanding Congress both as a lawmaking and a representative institution. The purpose of this volume is to take stock of this impressive and diverse literature identifying areas of accomplishment and promising directions for future work. The editors have commissioned 37 chapters by leading scholars in the field each chapter critically engages the scholarship focusing on a particular aspect of congressional politics including the institution's responsiveness to the American public its procedures and capacities for policymaking its internal procedures and development relationships between the branches of government and the scholarly methodologies for approaching these topics. The Handbook also includes chapters addressing timely questions including partisan polarization congressional war powers and the supermajoritarian procedures of the contemporary Senate. Beyond simply bringing readers up to speed on the current state of research the volume offers critical assessments of how each literature has progressed or failed to progress in recent decades. The chapters identify the major questions posed by each line of research and assess the degree to which the answers developed in the literature are persuasive. The goal is not simply to tell us where we have been as a field but to set an agenda for research on Congress for the next decade. The Oxford Handbooks of American Politics are a set of reference books offering authoritative and engaging critical overviews of the state of scholarship on American politics. Each volume focuses on a particular aspect of the field. The project is under the General Editorship of George C. Edwards III and distinguished specialists in their respective fields edit each volume. The Handbooks aim not just to report on the discipline but also to shape it as scholars critically assess the scholarship on a topic and propose directions in which it needs to move. The series is an indispensable reference for anyone working in American politics.

Partisan Supremacy Terri Jennings Peretti, 2020-11-20

I have no agenda. US Supreme Court Chief Justice John Roberts proclaimed at his Senate confirmation hearing. My job is to call balls and strikes and not to pitch or bat. This declaration was in keeping with the avowed independence of the judiciary. It also when viewed through the lens of Roberts's election law decisions appears to be false. With a scrupulous reading of judicial decisions and a careful assessment of partisan causes and consequences Terri Jennings Peretti tells the story of the GOP's largely successful campaign to enlist judicial aid for its self-interested election reform agenda. Partisan Supremacy explores four contemporary election law issues: voter identification, gerrymandering, campaign finance, and the preclearance regime of the Voting Rights Act to uncover whether Republican politicians and Republican judges have collaborated to tilt America's election rules in the GOP's favor. Considering cases from Shelby County v Holder which enfeebled the Voting Rights Act to Crawford v Marion County Election Board which upheld restrictive voter identification laws to Citizens United and McCutcheon which loosened campaign finance restrictions Peretti lays bare the reality of friendly judicial review and partisan supremacy when it comes to election law. She nonetheless finds a mixed verdict in the redistricting area that reveals the limits of partisan control over judicial decisions. Peretti's book helpfully places the current GOP's voter suppression campaign in historical context by acknowledging similar efforts by the post-Civil War Democratic Party. While the modern Democratic Party seeks electoral advantage by expanding voting by America's minorities and youth arguably hewing closer to democratic principles neither party is immune to the powerful incentive to bend election rules in its favor. In view of the evidence that Partisan Supremacy brings to light we are left with a critical and pressing question: Can democracy survive in the face of partisan collaboration across the branches of government on critical election issues?

Conventional Wisdom and American Elections Jody C Baumgartner, Peter L. Francia, 2019-11-12. During every election cycle political observers generate a seemingly limitless supply of theories, opinions, and predictions. Unfortunately many of these assertions oversimplify complex subjects or overhype the latest political fads. Inevitably some misinformation becomes part of the conventional wisdom about American elections. The objective of Conventional Wisdom and American Elections: Exploding Myths, Exploring Misconceptions is to bring clarity to several of these subjects. For example, it is now commonplace for commentators to emphasize the negative tactics and practices of the campaigns of presidential candidates. In 2016 some commentators suggested that the presidential campaign was the nastiest ever with the campaigns of President Donald Trump, Hillary Clinton, and their supporters going to new extremes of negativity. However, these claims are not new. Dating as far back as the presidential election of 1800 critics of Thomas Jefferson stated that his potential victory would bring about legal prostitution and the burning of the Bible. In 1824 opponents of Andrew Jackson charged that he was a murderer and that his wife was a bigamist. Perhaps most scurrilous of all Jackson's opponents even accused his dead mother of being a prostitute. In total Conventional Wisdom and American Elections identifies eleven widely held myths and misconceptions about elections in the United States The conclusions drawn throughout the book are based on the most current political science research In some instances the literature is clear in debunking popular myths about American elections On other issues research findings are more mixed In either case Conventional Wisdom and American Elections clarifies the issues so that readers can discern between those in which scholars have largely resolved and those in which honest debate remains

Reform and Retrenchment Robert G. Boatright, 2024-04-23 The direct primary in which voters rather than party leaders or convention delegates select party nominees for state and federal offices was one of the most widely adopted political reforms of the early twentieth century Yet after decades of practice and study scholars have found little clear evidence that direct primaries changed the outcomes of party nominations The conventional wisdom has always been that once the Progressive movement declined and voters became distracted by more pressing issues parties slowly reasserted their control over candidate selection This book shows that the conventional wisdom is wrong Exploring changes in American primary election laws from the 1920s to the 1970s Robert G Boatright argues in Reform and Retrenchment that the introduction of the direct primary created far more chaos in American elections than most scholars realize As he shows political parties factions and reform groups manipulated primary election laws in order to gain an advantage over their opponents often under the guise of enhancing democracy Today there is widespread dissatisfaction with primaries and we are again in a period of experimentation Boatright looks at how this history can help us understand the reform ideas before us today ultimately suggesting that for all of its flaws there is likely little that can be done to improve primaries and those who would seek to change American politics are best off exploring reforms to other areas of elections and governance

Campaigns and Elections Stephen K. Medvic, 2021-11-29 Stephen K Medvic's Campaigns and Elections is a comprehensive yet compact core text that addresses two distinct but related aspects of American electoral democracy the processes that constitute campaigns and elections and the players who are involved In addition to balanced coverage of process and actors it gives equal billing to both campaigns and elections and covers contests for legislative and executive positions at the national state and local levels including issue oriented campaigns of note The book opens by providing students with the conceptual distinctions between what happens in an election and the campaigning that precedes it Significant attention is devoted to setting up the context for these campaigns and elections by covering the rules of the game in the American electoral system as well as aspects of election administration and the funding of elections Then the book systematically covers the actors at every level candidates and their organizations parties interest groups the media and voters and the macro level aspects of campaigns such as campaign strategy and determinants of election outcomes The book concludes with a big picture assessment of campaign ethics and implications of the permanent campaign New to the Fourth Edition Fully updated through the 2020 elections looking ahead to the 2022 midterms Covers the impact of the COVID 19 pandemic on the 2020 election as well as the January 6 2021 insurrection at the US Capitol Adds new sections in Chapter 3 on election integrity and the assessment of election administration Reviews recent Supreme Court cases on gerrymandering and faithless electors Expands coverage of social media as a source of news of the increasingly partisan nature of the media and of the role of media fact checking in campaigns and elections Reorganizes the chapters on the various actors so that the chapter on candidates leads directly to the chapter on campaigns Fully updates the resources listed at the end of each chapter

Rethinking American Electoral Democracy Matthew J. Streb,2011-02-01 While frustration with various aspects of American democracy abound in the United States there is little agreement over or even understanding of what kinds of changes would make the system more effective and increase political participation Matthew J Streb sheds much needed light on all the major concerns of the electoral process in this timely book on improving American electoral democracy This critical examination of the rules and institutional arrangements that shape the American electoral process analyzes the major debates that embroil scholars and reformers on subjects ranging from the number of elections we hold and the use of nonpartisan elections to the presidential nominating process and campaign finance laws Ultimately Streb argues for a less burdensome democracy a democracy in which citizens can participate more easily in transparent competitive elections This book is designed to get students of elections and American political institutions to think critically about what it means to be democratic and how democratic the United States really is Part of the Controversies in Electoral Democracy and Representation series edited by Matthew J Streb

Democracy in the States Bruce E. Cain,Todd Donovan,Caroline J. Tolbert,2011-06-01 Democracy in the States offers a 21st century agenda for election reform in America based on lessons learned in the fifty states Combining accessibility and rigor leading scholars of U S politics and elections examine the impact of reforms intended to increase the integrity fairness and responsiveness of the electoral system While some of these reforms focus on election administration which has been the subject of much controversy since the 2000 presidential election others seek more broadly to increase political participation and improve representation For example Paul Gronke Reed College and his colleagues study the relationship between early voting and turnout Barry Burden University of Wisconsin Madison examines the hurdles that third party candidates must clear to get on the ballot in different states Michael McDonald George Mason University analyzes the leading strategies for redistricting reform And Todd Donovan Western Washington University focuses on how the spread of safe legislative seats affects both representation and participation Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis famously observed that a single courageous state may if its citizens choose serve as a laboratory and try novel social and economic experiments without risk to the rest of the country Nowhere is this function more essential than in the sphere of election reform as this important book shows

Redistricting in Comparative Perspective Lisa Handley, Bernard Grofman, 2008-06-26 The aim of this book is threefold First to put in one place for the convenience of both scholars and practitioners the basic data on redistricting practices in democracies around the world Remarkably this data has never before been collected Second to provide a series of short case studies that look in more detail at particular countries with regard to the institutions and practices that have evolved for redistricting and the nature of the debates that have arisen Third to begin to look in comparative perspective at the consequences of alternative redistricting mechanisms and at the tradeoffs among competing redistricting criteria This volume has contributions from some of the leading specialists on redistricting in the world The chapters reflect a mix of country specific material chapters that are broadly comparative and chapters whose contributions are more methodological in nature The chapters in this volume provide an indispensable introduction to the institutions practices and consequences of boundary delimitation around the world Comparative Politics is a series for students and teachers of political science that deals with contemporary issues in comparative government and politics The General Editors are David M Farrell Jean Monnet Chair in European Politics and Head of School of Social Sciences University of Manchester and Alfio Mastropaolo University of Turin The series is published in association with the European Consortium for Political Research

The Realities of Redistricting Jonathan Winburn, 2008-03-07 Allowing legislators to pick the voters that make up their districts is a fundamental conflict of interest and central concern for the popular sovereignty of American elections In The Realities of Redistricting Jonathan Winburn examines the extent of this potential problem by focusing on both the incentives and the constraints facing state legislators during the redistricting process Most research on redistricting tends to examine only the outcomes produced in terms of partisan gains or losses however we know much less about what constrains political mapmakers during the process We know even less about whether constraints built into the process are enough to limit the partisan manipulation of both district boundaries and electoral outcomes From the beginning stages of redistricting to the resulting outcomes on election day this book analyzes the constraints and incentives that state legislators face By examining the entire process this book investigates who holds the power in the process and improves our understanding of the conditions under which redrawing district boundaries have a significant influence on partisan politics throughout the country Specifically reformers who generally argue for commissions may find that focusing on the rules rather than the actors is a better path to improving the process The Realities of Redistricting is an interesting and informative read for anyone concerned with one of the most contentious processes in the American system Democracy More or Less Bruce E.
