Bulletin, 1928 In This Land of Plenty Benjamin Talton, 2019-07-26 On August 7 1989 Congressman Mickey Leland departed on a flight from Addis Ababa with his thirteen member delegation of Ethiopian and American relief workers and policy analysts bound for Ethiopia s border with Sudan This was Leland s seventh official humanitarian mission in his nearly decade long drive to transform U S policies toward Africa to conform to his black internationalist vision of global cooperation antiracism and freedom from hunger Leland s flight never arrived at its destination The plane crashed with no survivors When Leland embarked on that delegation he was a forty four year old deeply charismatic fiercely compassionate black radical American He was also an elected Democratic representative of Houston s largely African American and Latino Eighteenth Congressional District Above all he was a self proclaimed citizen of humanity Throughout the 1980s Leland and a small group of former radical activist African American colleagues inside and outside Congress exerted outsized influence to elevate Africa s significance in American foreign affairs and to move the United States from its Cold War orientation toward a foreign policy devoted to humanitarianism antiracism and moral leadership Their internationalism defined a new era of black political engagement with Africa In This Land of Plenty presents Leland as the embodiment of larger currents in African American politics at the end of the twentieth century But a sober look at his aspirations shows the successes and shortcomings of domestic radicalism and aspirations of politically neutral humanitarianism during the 1980s and the extent to which the decade was a major turning point in U S relations with the African continent Exploring the links between political activism electoral politics and international affairs Benjamin Talton not only details Leland s political career but also examines African Americans successes and failures in influencing U S foreign policy toward African and other Global South countries
