point for life long learning The author asks How can we assess and track children s learning in the early years in a way that includes learning dispositions and avoids the pitfalls of over formal methods whilst being helpful for practitioners interesting for families and supportive for learners The book describes a way of assessment that stays close to the children s real experiences and provides an alternative to mechanistic and fragmented approaches shows how practitioners can assess what really matters those learning dispositions interest involvement and perseverance for example that provide a foundation for life long learning The book is about weaving theory and practice theorizing development and learning as reflected in assessment practice The author also argues that unless we find ways to assess complex outcomes in early childhood they will be excluded from the teaching and the learning Simple and low level outcomes and goals will take their place The theoretical ideas and arguments are illustrated throughout by transcripts and stories of children in a range of early childhood settings At every turn in the journey it asks How is this reflected in a real life context It documents the voices of children practitioners and parents as the learning story develops
