Teaching and Learning in Context Richard Tabulawa, 2013 Since the 1990s sub Saharan Africa has experienced unprecedented attempts at reforming teacher and student classroom practices with a learner centred pedagogy regarded as an effective antidote to the prevalence of teacher centred didactic classroom practices Attempts at reform have been going on all over the continent In fact learner centred pedagogy has been described as one of the most pervasive educational ideas in contemporary sub Saharan Africa and elsewhere Research has revealed that the major attempts have largely failed mainly because teachers have not been able to adopt instructional innovations to technical problems This failure is also related to lack of resources and poor teacher training programmes which lead to poor teacher quality among others This book attempts to explain why pedagogical change has not occurred in spite of the much energy and resources that have been committed to such reforms The book also takes us inside what the author calls the socio cultural world of African classrooms to help us understand the reasons teachers dominate classroom life and rely disproportionately on didactic methods of teaching Its conceptual analyses capture the best of both the sociology and the anthropology of education in contexts of poverty as well as the politics of education The book concludes that a socio cultural approach should be the basis for developing culturally responsive indigenous pedagogies though these may or may not turn out to be in any way akin to constructivist learner centred pedagogies Awakening the Slower Mind Violet R.

Bruce,2014-05-15 Awakening the Slower Mind deals with the education of and teaching special needs children More particularly this book concerns children in special schools for the educationally subnormal whom the author differentiates from the ineducable child The first part of this book discusses these children by noting conditions before and during their birth and the background environment of immigrant children and school transferees The second part of this text is a discussion on the educational system as to how it affects these children and discusses when the child with difficulties cannot keep up with his teachers with the other students and with the system In a highly industrialized country literacy becomes an important tool for communication By making these special students appreciate the value of using language properly through the teacher s efficient use of expressive arts and similar activities their personality can develop and grow to the point that they will learn to appreciate the value of learning appropriate and correct language skills The author points out that in this way these children will become functionally literate This book is recommended for school administrators for special learning institutions school counselors education majors pediatricians and parents of special needs children Journal of the Senate, Legislature of the State of California California.
