Passionate Shepherdess Aphra Behn 1640 1989:

The Passionate Shepherdess: Aphra Behn, 1640-89 Maureen Duffy, 1977      The Passionate Shepherdess Maureen Duffy, 1977      The Secret Life of Aphra Behn Janet Todd, 2013-09-19 All women together ought to let flowers fall upon the tomb of Aphra Behn for it was she who earned them the right to speak their minds said Virginia Woolf Yet that tomb in Westminster Abbey records one of the few uncontested facts about this Restoration playwright poet novelist and spy the date of her death 16 April 1689 For the rest secrecy and duplicity are almost the key to her life She loved codes making and breaking them writing her life becomes a decoding of a passionate but playful woman Janet Todd draws on documents she has rediscovered in the Dutch archives and on Behn's own writings to tell a story of court diplomatic and sexual intrigue and of the rise from humble origins of the first woman to earn her living as a professional writer Aphra Behn's first notable employment was as a Royal spy in Holland she had probably also spied in Surinam It was not until she was in her thirties that she published the first of the 19 plays and other works which established her fame though not riches among her good sweet honey candied readers Many of her works were openly erotic indeed as frank as anything by her friends Wycherley and Rochester Some also offered an inside view of court and political intrigues and Todd reveals the historical scandals and legal cases behind some of Behn's most famous fictions      Rereading Aphra Behn Heidi Hutner, 1993 Aphra Behn was the first Englishwoman to earn her living from writing This collection of critical essays explores the different genres in Behn's canon including her plays criticism fiction and poetry from a wide variety of feminist theoretical approaches      Aphra Behn's 'Emperor of the Moon' and its French Source 'Arlequin, Empereur dans la lune' Judy A. Hayden, Daniel J. Worden, 2019-05-31 Aphra Behn's spectacular farce Emperor of the Moon 1687 so engaged audiences that it was restaged well into the eighteenth century Her play was largely adapted from Anne Mauduit de Fatouville's Arlequin Empereur dans la lune 1684 a commedia dell'arte production by the Com die Italienne troupe a performance which also proved immensely popular with Parisian audiences Within its witty and amusing three acts Behn's play explores a number of contemporary concerns from commedia dell'arte to gender and politics to science and astronomy including a plurality of worlds for example all culminating in the third act's operatic spectacle This volume offers a transcription of Behn's 1687 play with extensive annotations a critical discussion of Behn's text and the first English translation of Fatouville's eight French and Italian scenes      The Poems of Aphra Behn Janet Todd, 2020-02-06 Aphra Behn 1640-89 was a popular poet author of the influential novel Oroonoko and one of the most successful dramatists of the Restoration theater Behn led an unusually active and eventful life for a woman of her era traveling widely to Surinam in 1663 and to Antwerp in 1666 where Charles II sent her as a spy during the Anglo Dutch war Returning to England she spent some time in a debtor's prison and subsequently devoted herself to writing publishing numerous poems and almost twenty plays between 1670 and 1689 Because of the overtly political nature of her work much of Behn's writing appeared anonymously and in many different versions The Poetry of Aphra Behn is the first accessible reprinting of Aphra Behn's verses since the seventeenth century Encompassing the entirety of her oeuvre from satirical writings to songs love poems and verse epistles the book is a testament to the life and mind of a remarkable woman      Early Women Dramatists 1550-1801 Margarete Rubik,2016-01-14 A comprehensive survey of women's drama between the Renaissance and the end of the eighteenth century assessing the plays characteristic features and the ruptures in the text indicating the writers precarious social and artistic position and ambiguous stances to their own creativity and sex Chapters are devoted to individual writers as well as to general developments in specific periods The most significant plays are analysed in detail and related to the male literary canon of the time in order to stress both their originality and the existence of an albeit tentative female literary tradition      The politics of writing: Julia Kavanagh, 1824-77 Eileen Fauset,2013-07-19 Julia Kavanagh was a popular and internationally published writer of the mid nineteenth century whose collective body of work included fiction biography critical studies of French and English women writers and travel writing In this critically engaged study Eileen Fauset sees Kavanagh as a significant but neglected writer and returns her to her proper place in the history of women's writing With few known primary sources to go on the author manages through her skilful selection of letters official documents and historical commentary to piece together some of the jigsaw of Kavanagh's life Throughout this study the biographical element informs and directs discussion of Kavanagh's writing itself What emerges is a succinct and telling portrait of a woman who through a desire to write acquired both economic independence and a means through which she could voice her sexual politics Eileen Fauset challenges the historical attitudes to popular romance a genre read mainly by women and generally discounted as simple entertainment She argues that in Kavanagh's novels romance is often the pivot around which issues of cultural and sexual difference are examined a perspective that invariably also informed Kavanagh's non fiction It will appeal to academics students and enthusiasts of Victorian literature and women's writing      Oroonoko, the Rover and Other Works Aphra Behn,2003-08-28 When Prince Oroonoko's passion for the virtuous Imoinda arouses the jealousy of his grandfather the lovers are cast into slavery and transported from Africa to the colony of Surinam Oroonoko's noble bearing soon wins the respect of his English captors but his struggle for freedom brings about his destruction Inspired by Aphra Behn's visit to Surinam Oroonoko 1688 reflects the author's romantic view of Native Americans as simple superior peoples in the first state of innocence before men knew how to sin The novel also reveals Behn's ambiguous attitude to African slavery while she favoured it as a means to strengthen England's power her powerful and moving work conveys its injustice and brutality      Family Fictions Christopher Flint,2002-02 By revealing the investment of eighteenth century British prose fiction in contemporary debates about domestic ideology this book addresses the multiple ways in which traditional notions of the family were estranged reconstituted as novel concepts and then finally presented as national social norms It focuses on works by Aphra Behn Daniel Defoe Samuel Richardson Eliza Haywood Horace Walpole Laurence Sterne and Mary Wollstonecraft addressing a number of narratives that historians of the novel have overlooked while linking such better known works as Robinson Crusoe and Pamela to their often neglected sequels Challenging competing critical claims that the household either experienced a revolution in form or that it remained essentially unchanged the author argues that eighteenth century writers employed a set of complementary strategies to refashion the symbolic and affective power of bourgeois domesticity Whether these writers regarded the household as a supplement to such other social institutions as the Church or the monarchy or as a structure resisting these institutions they affirmed the family's central role in managing civil behavior At a time however when the middle class was beginning to scrutinize itself as a distinct social entity its most popular form of literature reveals that many felt alienated from the most intimate and yet explosive of social experiences family life Prose fiction sought to channel these disturbingly fluid domestic feelings yet was in itself haunted by the specter of unregulated affect Recovering the period's own disparate perceptions of household relations the book explains how eighteenth century British prose fiction which incorporates elements from conduct books political treatises and demographic material used the family as an instrumental concept in a struggle to resolve larger cultural tensions at the same time it replicated many of the rifts within contemporary family ideology

Reading Early Modern Women's Writing Paul Salzman, 2006-11-30 This book contains the first comprehensive account of writing by women from the mid sixteenth century through to 1700 At the same time it traces the way a representative sample of that writing was published circulated in manuscript read anthologised reprinted and discussed from the time it was produced through to the present day Salzman's study covers an enormous range of women from all areas of early modern society and it covers examples of the many and varied genres produced by these women from plays to prophecies diaries to poems autobiographies to philosophy As well as introducing readers to the wealth of material produced by women in the early modern period this book examines changing responses to what was written tracing a history of reception and transmission that amounts to a cultural history of changing taste

Partisan Politics, Narrative Realism, and the Rise of the British Novel R. Carnell, 2006-08-19 This book considers why narrative realism in literature is seen as a full account of real life and the individual self Unconventionally Carnell shows that the formal conventions of narrative realism emerged in the seventeenth century in response to an explosion of partisan writings that put into play competing versions of political selfhood
