Past In The Present A Thematic Study Of Modern Southern Fiction:

The past in the present Thomas Daniel Young,1981 Contemporary Southern Men Fiction Writers Rosemary M. The Postsouthern Sense of Place in Contemporary Fiction Martyn Bone,2014-01-13 For generations southern novelists and critics have grappled with a concept that is widely seen as a trademark of their literature a strong attachment to geography or a sense of place In the 1930s the Agrarians accorded special meaning to rural life particularly the farm in their definitions of southern identity For them the South seemed an organic and rooted region in contrast to the North where real estate development and urban sprawl evoked a faceless raw capitalism By the end of the twentieth century however economic and social forces had converged to create a modernized South How have writers responded to this phenomenon Is there still a sense of place in the South or perhaps a distinctly postsouthern sense of place Martyn Bone innovatively draws upon postmodern thinking to consider the various perspectives that southern writers have brought to the concept of place and to look at its fate in a national and global context He begins with a revisionist assessment of the Agrarians who failed in their attempts to turn their proprietary ideal of the small farm into actual policy but whose broader rural aesthetic lived on in the work of neo Agrarian writers including William Faulkner and Eudora Welty By the 1950s adherence to this aesthetic was causing southern writers and critics to lose sight of the social reality of a changing South Bone turns to more recent works that do respond to the impact of capitalist spatial development on the South and on the nation generally including that self declared international city Atlanta Close readings of novels by Robert Penn Warren Walker Percy Richard Ford Anne Rivers Siddons Tom Wolfe and Toni Cade Bambara illuminate evolving ideas about capital land labor and class while introducing southern literary studies into wider debates around social cultural and literary geography Bone concludes his remarkably rich book by considering works of Harry Crews and Barbara Kingsolver that suggest the southern sense of place may be not only post Agrarian or postsouthern but also transnational

Gothic Traditions and Narrative Techniques in the Fiction of Eudora Welty Ruth D. Weston,1994-11-01 In this study Ruth D Weston probes the whole of Eudora Welty s work to reveal the writer s close relationship to the gothic tradition Specifically Weston shows how Welty employs the theme of enclosure and escape and settings that convey a sense of mystery gothic adaptations both to create certain narrative techniques in her fiction Differentiating at the outset between the Gothic genre as opposed to elements of the gothic tradition and acknowledging both critics and Welty s own reluctance to link her writing with the former Weston plunges in and brilliantly discloses the relationship Welty s writing has to both and in doing so describes a rich literary heritage to which Welty belongs She shows how the tradition of adapting European Gothic conventions to American settings has come down to us through writers such as Hawthorne particularly through the short story and continues in Welty s fiction Among Welty s narrative techniques that Weston discusses are plot structures built around betrayal and captivity reversal of characters gender roles a tone sometimes similar to that of gothic genres such as the fairy tale or ghost story and affective settings in gothic spaces such as the woods along the Natchez Trace These techniques Weston explains help Welty in illustrating restrictions placed on the individual s search for selfhood by human relationships cultural expectations and memory In addition to examining the texts themselves Weston draws on Welty s critical and theoretical writings and her letters and other materials in archival collections She also gleans insights from the work of contemporary narrative theorists feminist critics and recent commentators on the Gothic In the course of her presentation she offers some excellent new assessments of Welty s relation to the female Gothic and the Southern Gothic and to William Faulkner and Jane Austen This book is one of the most informed studies to date of Welty s relation to the literary mainstream of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Welty scholars as well as general readers of American and southern literature will gain a deep appreciation for Welty s imaginative and original response to the Gothic literary tradition

Postregional Fictions Clare Chadd,2021-07-07 Drawing from recent debates about the validity of regional studies and skepticism surrounding the efficacy of the concept of authenticity Clare Chadd s Postregional Fictions focuses on questions of southern regional authenticity in fiction published by Barry Hannah from 1972 to 2001 The first monograph on the Mississippi author s work to appear since his death this study considers the ways in which Hannah s novels and short stories challenge established conceptual understandings of the U S South Hannah s writing often features elements of metafiction through which the putative sense of southernness his stories dramatize is complicated by an intense self reflexivity about the extent to which a sense of place has never been foundational or essential but has always been constructed and performed Such texts locate a productive terrain between the local and the global with particular relevance for critical apprehensions of the post South and postsouthern literature Offering sustained close readings of selected stories and focusing especially on Hannah s late work Chadd argues that his fiction reveals the region constantly shifting in a process of mythmaking dialogue and performance In turn she uses Hannah s work to suggest how notions of the South and southernness might survive the various deconstructive approaches leveled against them in recent decades of southern studies scholarship Rather than seeing an impasse between the regional and the global Chadd s reading of Hannah shows the two existing and flourishing in tandem In Postregional Fictions Chadd offers a new interpretation of Hannah based on an appreciation of the vital intersection of southern and postmodern elements in his work

The South in Black and White McKay Jenkins, 2005-10-12 If the nation as a whole during the 1940s was halfway between the Great Depression of the 1930s and the postwar prosperity of the 1950s the South found itself struggling through an additional transition one bound up in an often violent reworking of its own sense of history and regional identity Examining the changing nature of racial politics in the 1940s McKay Jenkins measures its impact on white Southern literature history and culture Jenkins focuses on four white Southern writers W J Cash William Alexander Percy Lillian Smith and Carson McCullers to show how they constructed images of race and race relations within works that professed to have little if anything to do with race Sexual isolation further complicated these authors struggles with issues of identity and repression he argues allowing them to occupy a space between the privilege of whiteness and the alienation of blackness Although their views on race varied tremendously these Southern writers uneasy relationship with their own dominant racial group belies the idea that whiteness was an unchallenged monolithic racial identity in the region
