Pastoralism And Rural Development The Iparakuyo Experience:

Pastoralism and Rural Development Daniel K. Ndagala,1991      Pastoralism and Rural Development Daniel K. Ndagala,1991      Custodians of the Commons Charles Lane,2014-04-23 An examination of the conflicts facing traditional pastoralist societies within the developing nations of Africa The book explores the forms of traditional land tenure and access to grazing resources which are being increasingly eroded by modern forms of ownership and development It shows how communal land tenure arrangements are essential not only for the survival of these societies but also to manage the pastures and rangelands in question The case studies are by local experts They cover Kenya Mali Senegal Mauritania Sudan Tanzania and Uganda Each looks at the political and legal context trends in pastoral development causes of conflict procedures for resolving conflict and environmental implications      Abstracts on Rural Development in the Tropics ,1993

Socioeconomic Change and Land Use in Africa E. Mwangi,2016-04-30 This study investigates how and why a group ranch members in Kajiado District Kenya supported the subdivision of their collective landholdings into individual titled units and what outcomes resulted in this transition to individual rights Viewed over a longer time scale the author finds that politics is at the core of institutional change      Tanzania Colin Darch,1996 Tanzania is a country of remarkable natural beauty which has been a source of fascination for foreign travellers for centuries The country contains a landscape of rich diversity which embraces the snowcapped Mount Kilimanjaro at its highest point and at its lowest the spectacular Great Rift Valley This volume provides the reader with a systematic guide to the large and growing body of literature on all aspects of the country s past and present including the political democratization and economic liberalization      Accessions List, South Asia Library of Congress. Library of Congress Office, New Delhi,1991-06      Rural Water Management in Africa Leticia K. Nkonya,2008 As one of the most important natural resources the management of water is becoming increasingly important as water resources are growing more scarce This is especially the case for rural areas and developing countries such as Africa In sub Saharan African SSA countries today the demand for water resources is increasing In this innovative study the author examines these forms of traditional or customary institutions of water management in a manner that has never been done before First the author provides us with an understanding and appreciation of the differential impact of customary institutions on drinking and irrigation water management Most sociological studies on rural water management in SSA have addressed water management issues without adequately analyzing customary institutions and showing how they affect rural water management Most studies in river basin management focus on water for irrigation Few studies have examined how the customary and statutory institutions influence water management for different water uses This study looks at how the management of water for domestic use differs from the management of water for livestock and small scale irrigation The second unique contribution of this book is the analysis of the role of women and how customary and statutory institutions affect women s participation in water management Few studies have looked at the role of women and their contribution to rural water management Previous studies have focused only on the statutory institutions Finally the study offers a valuable comparison of the effectiveness of statutory and customary institutions in enforcement of their regulations resolving natural resource conflicts and in ensuring access to water for different uses Although many researchers recognize the importance of customary institutions their analysis tends to focus more on the statutory institutions for water management In this book both formal and informal water management institutions are considered for a more balanced understanding The findings of this study will serve as the basis for formulating policies and programs that include customary institutions in the management of rural water resources in Tanzania In Tanzania lack of access to safe water for many rural populations is a major concern Lack of safe water has implications for rural people and the country as a whole Policy makers nongovernmental organizations planners and water providers need to be informed so they can incorporate customary institutions into policies and strategies for management of rural water resources This is an important book for African studies environmental studies and policy studies Joint Acquisitions List of Africana ,1996 Pastoralism in the New

Millenium Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2001-01-01 Pastoralism refers to the type of farming system which uses extensive grazing on grasslands for livestock production This type of farming covers 25 per cent of the world s land area and supports 20 million households It makes substantial contributions to the economies of developing countries although agricultural encroachment conflict and drought continue to erode this way of life This publication considers key policy issues and trends involved in attempts to improve the livelihoods of pastoralist families and communities

From Water to World-making Gísli Pálsson,1990 Bibliography of Agriculture ,1992-05 The Pastoral Continuum Paul Spencer,1998-01-29 Paul Spencer presents the definitive study of the ways of life of the cattle herding peoples of East Africa drawing on many years of research This region has offered a prime example of a traditional culture resisting the inevitability of change it provides the best known and most extensive instance both of cattle pastoralist society and of social organization based primarily on age Pastoral peoples were once dominant in the East African interior but development of the market economy has progressively polarized the region and forced them into the most marginal drought ridden areas in this ecological trap they have become a peripheral underclass The Pastoral Continuum examines the richness and resilience of their cultures and illuminates the role of indigenous practices and institutions in adaptation and survival The pastoralists systems of age organization in particular are notable for their resilience it is demonstrated that these are bound up with problems of growth and succession in family enterprises and that marriage is a critical link in the web of alliance that governs the problematic relations between old and young Spencer s exploration of the development of the pastoralist phenomenon yields a unique view of its place in the modern world and its prospects for the future This landmark work by a leading authority will be of lasting value to any reader interested in traditional social systems of this kind Bibliography of Agriculture with Subject Index ,1992 Bibliographie der Wirtschaftswissenschaften ,1992 International African
