Traci Lester, executive director, Reach Out and Read of Greater New York. Teaching Through Texts Holly Anderson, Morag Styles, 2002-02-07. Drawing on many popular and literary texts, the contributors to this book write with enthusiasm about opportunities for creative teaching and learning and provide many examples of good practice both inside and outside the Literacy Hour. Communicating Trauma Na'ama Yehuda, 2015-08-27. Communicating Trauma explores the various aspects of language and communication and how their development can be affected by childhood trauma and overwhelm. Multiple case study vignettes describe how different kinds of childhood trauma can manifest in children's ability to relate, attend, learn, and communicate. These examples offer ways to understand, respond, and support children who are communicating overwhelm. In this book, psychotherapists, speech language pathologists, social workers, educators, occupational and physical therapists, medical personnel, foster parents, adoption agencies, and other child professionals and caregivers will find information and practical direction for improving connection and behavior, reducing miscommunication, and giving a voice to those who are often our most challenging children. Good Books Matter Larry Swartz, Debbie Nyman, 2008. Based on extensive research on the features that make children's books appealing and appropriate, this valuable teacher resource offers guidance on selecting books, strategies for specific grade levels, suggestions for extension, and tips for assessment. This teacher-friendly book is organized around the major genres: traditional literature, picture books, nonfiction, poetry, and multicultural texts that will inspire young readers. Throughout the book, teachers will find suggestions for using literature to implement shared reading, reading aloud, and response strategies with emergent, developing, and independent readers. This comprehensive book is rooted in the belief that educators must consider and offer a wide range of choice to ensure that students read good books. It argues that the choices children make about what they read should be governed by their interests and desire to learn, not by a grade or reading level. Pediatric Primary Care - E-Book Catherine E.
