Deadly Doctrine Wendell Watters, 1992-12 The Christian religion presents itself as the way to contentment spiritual health and salvation But is this really true Dr Wendell Watters offers a powerful argument based on his many years of clinical experience with individuals couples and families that Christianity's influence actually militates against human development in such vital areas as self esteem sexuality and social interactions The tragic end result of Christian conditioning is too often antisocial behavior sexual dysfunction poor psychological development anxiety and even major psychiatric illness Christian indoctrination is not simply a problem affecting individuals or single families the noxious effects of its teachings over nearly two millennia pervade society at large even those who are not Christians and in ways that seriously undermine human welfare and the quality of life Christianity's aggressive pronatalist policies have encouraged large families despite parents inability to cope either emotionally or financially With this the Christian church has formulated rigid sexual roles forbidding all practices not leading directly to conception By actually promoting sexual ignorance and irresponsibility Christianity has allowed the proliferation of such social ills as rape child molestation and pornography In the face of so much human suffering resulting from Christian doctrine it is imperative that health care professionals recognizing the Christian belief system as an addictive disease develop a religious status examination to help evaluate how notions about life derived from Christian god talk compromise individuals healthy functioning In failing to determine the role of oppressive religious beliefs in mental illness physicians and other health care workers actually promote Christianity's continued stranglehold on human happiness and self fulfillment

An Ethics of Political Communication Alexander Brown, 2021-09-27 Working in the tradition of analytic philosophy Alexander Brown argues that many different forms of political communication or anti communication that often infuriate the public can also be ethically or morally objectionable These forms include question dodging offering scripted answers stonewalling not listening disseminating propaganda pandering being insincere giving false denials issuing revisionist interpretations refusing to take responsibility never apologising boasting and gaslighting Brown invokes a host of normative reasons including those having to do with epistemic arrogance interference in autonomy and violating the right to be heard This is not to say that all things considered politicians should never engage in dubious political communication Sometimes these are necessary evils Brown argues however that further moral inquiry is needed to show why they are evils and to determine when the use of these rhetorical tactics can be excessive unreasonable or out of place Key Features Identifies and conceptualises forms of dubious political communication Develops an ethical evaluation of political communication Considers possible justifications for the use of dubious political communication Makes practical recommendations on how to regulate unethical political communication
