Pather Panchali is a vivid moving and authentic portrayal of the life of a Brahmin household seen through the eyes of the two young children of the family Opu and his elder sister Durga Few authors in any literature can rival Bandhopadhyaya's understanding of the child mind He writes of Opu and Bruga and their friends at home or out at play with a natural realism unmarred by adult condescension The social environment is all embracing work and holidays religious festivals daily worship and the grim rites of death The reader senses the reality of family ties the power of the supernatural in ordinary things the relations between the castes and between rich and poor In creating this picture of rural Bengal Bandopadhyay has introduced us to an area of life which so far has been a closed book to foreign visitors to India and which scholars know little about The translation which faithfully reflects the changing moods of the original as well as its many variations of style is the work of T W Clark and Tarapada Mukherji both teachers of Bengali at the School of Oriental and African Studies in the University of London Pather Panchali Bibhūtibhūshaṇa Bandyopādhyāya, Bibhutibhushan Banerji, Thomas Welbourne Clark, Tarapada Mukherji, Janet Archer, 1969

Cinema has undergone significant development since its inception in the nineteenth century In the past two centuries and beyond technological progress and innovative experimentation have been prevalent Each successive film movement as well as filmmaking technique contributed to the development of the art form we adore today A comprehensive understanding of films necessitates an understanding of cinema and an appreciation for cinema requires an acknowledgment that unlike any other art form it has consistently been influenced by external forces primarily due to its immense popularity Furthermore cinema possesses the capacity to shape history in its own right While it is not advisable to write histories of literature and music as straightforward biographies of authors and their works omitting any discussion of printing and recording technologies the industries that utilize them or the contemporary world where artists and their audiences operated is possible but not recommended Cinema renders this task unattainable Placing films within their proper context is fundamental to the endeavor of this book without it they would be devoid of existence much less significance This entails acknowledging that while demands of industry and art in the film industry may not always coincide they are not inherently contradictory Instead it is the case that they lack proportionality Cinema as an industrial art form has evolved to incorporate industrialized methods of art production Nevertheless this is a fact that has proven to be exceedingly challenging for traditional aesthetics to accept Conversely numerous films exist that establish an artistic value that contradicts the principles of the industry upon which their production hinged Moreover there are numerous instances where the artistic

The Foreign Film Renaissance on American Screens, 1946-1973 Tino Balio, 2010-11-05 Largely shut out of American theaters since the 1920s foreign films such as Open City Bicycle Thief Rashomon The Seventh Seal Breathless La Dolce Vita and L'Avventura played after World War II in a growing number of art houses around the country and created a small but influential art film market devoted to the acquisition distribution and exhibition of foreign language and English language films produced abroad Nurtured by successive waves of imports from Italy Great Britain France Sweden Japan and the Soviet Bloc the renaissance was kick started by independent distributors working out of New York by the 1960s however the market had been subsumed by Hollywood From Roberto Rossellini's Open City in 1946 to Bernardo Bertolucci's Last Tango in Paris in 1973 Tino Balio tracks the critical reception in the press of such filmmakers as François Truffaut Jean Luc Godard Federico Fellini Michelangelo Antonioni Tony Richardson Ingmar Bergman Akira Kurosawa Luis Buñuel Satyajit Ray and Milos Forman Their releases paled in comparison to Hollywood fare at the box office but their impact on American film culture was enormous The reception accorded to art house cinema attacked motion picture censorship promoted the director as auteur and celebrated film as an international art Championing the cause was the new cinephile generation which was mostly made up of college students under thirty The fashion for foreign films depended in part on their frankness about sex When Hollywood abolished the Production Code in the late 1960s American made films began to treat adult themes with maturity and candor In this new environment foreign films lost their cachet and the art film market went into decline

Cinema of Interruptions Lalitha Gopalan, 2019-07-25 A framework for understanding the distinctiveness of Indian cinema as a national cinema within a global context dominated by Hollywood is proposed by this book With its sudden explosions into song and dance sequences half time intermissions and heavy traces of censorship Indian cinema can be identified as a Cinema of Interruptions To the uninitiated viewer brought up on the seamless linear plotting of Hollywood narrative this unfamiliar tendency towards digression may appear random and superfluous yet this book argues that such devices assist in the construction of a distinct visual and narrative time space In the hands of imaginative directors the conventions of Indian cinema become opportunities for narrative play and personal expression in such films as Sholay 1975 Nayakan 1987 Parinda 1989 Hathiyar 1981 and Hey Ram 1999 Cinema of Interruptions places commercial Indian film within a global system of popular cinemas but also points out its engagement with the dominant genre principles implemented by Western film By focusing on the action genre work of leading contemporary directors J P Dutta Mani Ratnam and Vidhu Vinod Chopra brazen national style is shown to interact with international genre films to produce a hybrid form that reworks the gangster film the western and the avenging woman genre Central to this study is the relationship Indian cinema shares with its audience and an understanding of the pleasures it offers the cinephile In articulating this bond the book presents not only a fresh framework for understanding popular Indian cinema but also a contribution to film genre studies
