

Manifesto from Protestant Ministers.

"Conscription and Christianity."

To the Electors of Australia.

Fellow Citizens,—

With almost complete unanimity the several branches of the Protestant Church have given their strong support to the principle of Conscription.

As these bodies are religious and not political they must base their attitude upon the Christian religion.

We, therefore, the undersigned ministers of religion, desire to express our complete dissent from the view commonly taken by our fellow ministers. We, too, claim to base our attitude upon those fundamental principles of Christianity which are the common possession of all Churches. We declare we can conceive no more amazing or incongruous spectacle than that of ministers of the Prince of Peace advocating often with intemperate zeal, the subordination of the rights of individual conscience to alleged military necessity.

In taking such a course Christian ministers seem to be abandoning the Christian tradition, and to be proclaiming to the world the failure of the laws of Christ.

We are far from accusing our brethren of hypocrisy or conscious desertion of Christian principle. We believe that they are acting from what they conceive to be the highest motives. We hold, nevertheless, that they are grievously misrepresenting their Master, and irreparably damaging the moral prestige of the Christian Church.

The present indefensible position of many Churches and ministers is, we believe, the result of a gradual process of which they themselves are hardly conscious, by which a new religion is being built on the ruins of that Christianity which the war is trampling underfoot.

The new religion which is invading the Christian Churches is the religion of the State.

In this new religion patriotism is the virtue which takes the place of Christian brotherhood; the State replaces God, and the national flag replaces the Cross. Its supreme law is not the law of God, but the military safety of the country.

We earnestly commend to the attention of our fellow Christians the words recently spoken in the British Parliament by Lord Hugh Cecil:—

"There are a great many people who care about religion, but care much more 'profoundly about their country. Those people have embarked upon the path down which Germany has gone. To say that the safety of the Republic is the supreme law 'is profoundly untrue. Not the safety of the Republic but the Divine law is the supreme law. For the honor and credit of this House, for the sake of the country of which we are citizens, because I would rather die than abandon the faith I hold so dear, I earnestly hope that we shall adhere now and for ever to the old doctrine, that much as we love our country, we love something better, and when appeal is made, our answer 'will be clear, firm and without hesitation.'"

These words state forcibly, yet charitably, a truth of vital importance to us all. We believe that when our fellow ministers preach Conscription in the name of religion, they are speaking not in the name of the Christian religion but of that other religion which we have described as the religion of the State, and that if we take care not to confuse these two things, but seek an answer to the question in the light simply of Christian principles, we shall recognise the incompatibility of Christianity and Conscription.

In all charity and good will we urge upon our fellow Christians the earnest consideration of our view.

Corrin,2010-12-20 Tracing the development of progressive Catholic approaches to political and economic modernization Catholic Intellectuals and the Challenge of Democracy disputes standard interpretations of the Catholic response to democracy and modernity in the English speaking world particularly the conventional view that the Church was the servant of right wing reactionaries and authoritarian patriarchal structures Starting with the writings of Bishop Wilhelm von Ketteler of Germany the Frenchman Fr d rick Ozanam and England s Cardinal Henry Edward Manning whose pioneering work laid the foundation of the Catholic third way Corrin reveals a long tradition within Roman Catholicism that championed social activism These visionary writers were the forerunners of Pope John XXIII's aggiornamento a call for Catholics to broaden their historical perspectives and move beyond a static theology fixed to the past By examining this often overlooked tradition Corrin attempts to confront the perception that Catholicism in the modern age has invariably been an institution of reaction that is highly suspicious of liberalism and progressive social reform Catholic Intellectuals and the Challenge of Democracy charts the efforts of key Catholic intellectuals primarily in Britain and the United States who embraced the modern world and endeavored to use the legacies of their faith to form an alternative pluralistic path that avoided both socialist collectivism and capitalism In this sweeping volume Corrin discusses the influences of Cecil and G K Chesterton H A Reinhold Hilaire Belloc and many others on the development of Catholic social economic and political thought with a special focus on Belloc and Reinhold as representatives of reactionary and progressive positions respectively He also provides an in depth analysis of Catholic Distributists responses to the labor unrest in Britain prior to World War I and later in the 1930s to the tragedy of the Spanish Civil War and the forces of fascism and communism Paul Tillich and Religious Socialism Kirk R. MacGregor, 2021-03-19 Paul Tillich and Religious Socialism Towards a Kingdom of Peace and Justice argues that the Kingdom of God the reign of God over all human affairs via God's manifestations in love power and justice can be fragmentarily achieved through a religious socialism that creatively integrates the early Tillich's socialist thinking with later insights throughout Tillich's theological career and with contemporary developments in just peacemaking The resulting religious socialism is defined by economic justice and a recognition of the sacred reality in all human endeavors It employs Christianity to furnish the necessary depth for warding off materialism and affirming the spiritual dimension of both labor and acquiring material goods The unbridgeable Marxist chasm between expectation and reality is bridged through new being already historically inaugurated in the Christhood of Jesus New being is fundamentally oriented toward bringing justice to the poor the disenfranchised and the marginalized It affirms the individual and equal value of all persons and thus in Kantian terms promotes a kingdom of intrinsically worthwhile ends rather than a kingdom of instrumentally worthwhile means of things On Spectrality David Ratmoko, 2006 Ratmoko English literature U of Zurich and comparative literature Yale U traces the genealogy of ghosts through philosophical literary and religious texts of the Western canon He discusses the spectral history of guilt in law the historical truth of spectrality spectrality in the era of Christianity and Greek tragedy and phantom formations after the Renaissance Annotation 2006 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com Sinicizing Christianity, 2017-04-18 Chinese people have been instrumental in indigenizing Christianity Sinicizing Christianity examines Christianity's transplantation to and transformation in China by focusing on three key elements Chinese agents of introduction Chinese redefinition of Christianity for the local context and Chinese institutions and practices that emerged and enabled indigenisation As a matter of fact Christianity is not an exception but just one of many foreign ideas and religions
