It will help you acquire the most useful materials while sharing information with collaborating libraries to offer patrons the latest and largest variety of resources. Offering methods that apply to libraries of different sizes and financial capability, Public Library Collection Development in the Information Age provides you with ideas and suggestions for the improvement of collection development methods, including examining how libraries use information to plan and budget for collection development, developing a budget method that takes several factors into consideration, such as population, impact, property tax revenues, circulation, reference needs, and client needs; centralizing selections in order to allocate additional staff time and to choose resources patrons want without sacrificing the utility of local collections; building public library collections with the assistance of vendors and the five levels of vendor participation; using the conspectus method to assess and organize the collections of small libraries for easier access; researching three public libraries in the United Kingdom to determine how varying levels of automation affect patron resources and services. To help you integrate the appropriate electronic resources into collection development policies and procedures, Public Library Collection Development in the Information Age discusses which formats, access methods, pricing schemes, and differences in scope will best meet your selection needs.
