Puerto Ricans From Island To Mainland:

Puerto Ricans, from Island to Mainland Arlene Harris Kurtis, 1969 Traces the history and development of Puerto Rico from about 50 B C to the present day and discusses the problems and contributions of modern Puerto Ricans who move to the mainland

Puerto Ricans Diego L. Colón, Diego, 2010-03 The basic assumption of this study is that mainland and island schools reinforce a modality to achieve which stresses contrasting achievement values For example the value placed on competitive achievement in United States schools seems to contradict the value placed on cooperative achievement in Puerto Rican schools In order to bridge the gap between the school policies and practices of these two different educational systems in the sense that the school reflects an understanding and acceptance of differences in the values underlying achievement potential it was imperative to undertake empirical exploration of the relational value orientations and achievement modes of islander and mainlander Puerto Rican college students Knowledge about these two areas facilitates an understanding of the relational value orientations and achievement potential learners bring into the school and any changes undergone as a result of the school's socializing function The work of educators in pluralistic settings of the United States as well as in Puerto Rico especially in the areas of curriculum and instruction may be enhanced by a comprehension of the relational value orientations and modes of achievement potential prevalent among multicultural learners

Decolonial Puerto Rican Women's Writings Roberta Hurtado, 2019-06-05 This book explores representations of sentient flesh that holds consciousness of being in Puerto Rican women's literature It considers how different literary devices can participate in the decolonization of the flesh as it is obfuscated by mappings of the body from the Enlightenment era and colonial endeavors Drawing on studies of cognitive development and epigenetics to identify how sentient flesh creates knowledge of power and navigates methods of subversion for social justice this book grapples with the question of how Puerto Rican women living in the nation of their colonizer manifest an identity that exists beyond the scope of colonization It makes the case for a change in perspective that illustrates the conceptual shift from survivors to thrivers to educators To do so it draws upon Cherríe Moraga and Gloria Anzaldá's theory in the flesh Iris López's theories of trauma knowledge and María Lugones's concept of world travelers to retain the corporeal flesh and physical location in Latinas attempts to write subversion under U S colonization across racial cultural and ethnic boundaries as well as the gendered sexuality barriers identified by Emma Pérez This project builds on their work to frame Latina literature within a new discussion of how corporeal memory and sentient experiences of identity must center sentient flesh as the source of decolonial consciousness rather than relapsing into discourses of the body
