The Only Mind Worth Having Gardner Fiona, 2016-11-24 In The Only Mind Worth Having Fiona Gardner takes Thomas Merton's belief that the child mind is the only mind worth having and explores it in the context of Jesus challenging paradoxical and enigmatic command to become like small children She demonstrates how Merton's belief and Jesus' command can be understood as part of contemporary spirituality and spiritual practice To follow Christ's command requires a great leap of the imagination Gardner examines what it might mean to make this leap when one is an adult without it becoming sentimental and mawkish or regressive and pathological Using both psychological and spiritual insights and drawing on the experiences of Thomas Merton and others Gardner suggests that in some mysterious and paradoxical way recovering a sense of childhood spirituality is the path towards spiritual maturity The move from childhood spirituality to adulthood and on to a spiritual maturity through the child mind is a move from innocence to experienced or organised innocence or from dependence to independence to a state of being in dependence with God

City of Second Sight Justin T. Clark, 2018-03-16 In the decades before the U S Civil War the city of Boston evolved from a dilapidated haphazardly planned and architecturally stagnant provincial town into a booming and visually impressive metropolis In an effort to remake Boston into the Athens of America neighborhoods were leveled streets straightened and an ambitious set of architectural ordinances enacted However even as residents reveled in a vibrant new landscape of landmark buildings art galleries parks and bustling streets the social and sensory upheaval of city life also gave rise to a widespread fascination with the unseen Focusing his analysis between 1820 and 1860 Justin T Clark traces how the effort to impose moral and social order on the city also inspired many from

Transcendentalists to clairvoyants and amateur artists to seek out more ethereal visions of the infinite and ideal beyond the gilded paintings and glimmering storefronts By elucidating the reciprocal influence of two of the most important developments in nineteenth century American culture the spectacular city and visionary culture Clark demonstrates how the nineteenth century city is not only the birthplace of modern spectacle but also a battleground for the freedom and autonomy of the spectator

Mysterious Minds Elise Nykänen, 2017-11-22 This study examines the narrative tools techniques and structures that Marja Liisa Vartio a classic of Finnish post war modernism used in presenting fictional minds in her narrative prose The study contributes to the academic discussion on formal and thematic conventions of modernism by addressing the ways in which fictional minds work in interaction and in relation to the enfolding fictional world The epistemic problem of how accurately the world the self and the other can be known is approached by analyzing two co operating ways of portraying fictional minds both from external and internal perspectives The external perspective relies on detachment and emotional restraint dominating in Vartio's early novels Se on sitten kevät and Mies kuin mies tyttö kuin tyttö The internal perspective pertains to the mental processes of self reflection speculation and excessive imagining that gain more importance in her later novels Kaikki naiset on kevätunna Tunteet and Hän on ollut linnut In the theoretical chapter of this study fictional minds are discussed in the context of the acclaimed inward turn of modernist fiction by suggesting alternative methods for reading modernist minds as embodied emotional and social entities In respect to fictional minds interaction this study elaborates on the ideas of mind reading intersubjectivity and the social mind established within post classical cognitive narratology Furthermore it employs possible world poetics when addressing the complexity incompleteness and inaccessibility of Vartio's epistemic worlds including the characters private worlds of knowledge beliefs emotions hallucinations and dreams In regards to the emotional emplotment of fictional worlds this study also benefits from affective narratology as well as the plot theory being influenced by possible world semantics narrative dynamics and cognitive narratology As the five analysis chapters of this study show fictional minds in Vartio's fiction are not only introspective solipsist and streaming but also embodied and social entities In the readings of the primary texts the concept of embodiedness is used to examine the situated presence of an experiencing mind within the time and space of the storyworld Fictional minds interactions are also demonstrated as evolving from local experientiality to long term calculations that turn emotional incidents into episodes and episodes into stories In Vartio's novels the emotional story structure of certain conventional story patterns such as the narratives of female development and the romance plot the sentimental novel and epistolary fiction are modified and causally altered in the portrayal of the embodied interactions between the self the other and the world The trajectories of female self discovery in Vartio's novels are analyzed through the emotional responses of characters their experiences of randomness their ways of counterfactualizing their traumatic past their procrastinatory or akratic reactions or indecisiveness The gradual move away from the percepts of the external world to the excessive imaginings and misreadings of other minds triggered by the interaction of worlds and minds challenges the contemporary and more recent accounts of modernism both in Finnish and international contexts
