Seeking El Dorado Lawrence B. de Graaf, Kevin Mulroy, Quintard Taylor, 2014-07-01 From the 18th century African Americans like many others have migrated to California to seek fortunes or often the more modest goals of being able to find work own a home and raise a family relatively free of discrimination Not only their search but also its outcome is covered in Seeking El Dorado Whether they settled in major cities or smaller towns African Americans created institutions and organizations churches social clubs literary societies fraternal orders civil rights organizations that embodied the legacy of their past and the values they shared Blacks came in search of the same jobs as other Americans but the search often proved frustrating Throughout the 19th and 20th centuries African American leadership in the state consistently focused on achieving racial justice The essays in this book speak of triumph and hardship success discrimination and disappointment Seeking El Dorado is a major contribution to black history and the history of the American West and will be of interest to both scholars and general readers

Making Black Los Angeles Marne L. Campbell, 2016-09-27 Black Los Angeles started small The first census of the newly formed Los Angeles County in 1850 recorded only twelve Americans of African descent alongside a population of more than 3 500 Anglo Americans Over the following seventy years however the African American founding families of Los Angeles forged a vibrant community within the increasingly segregated and stratified city In this book historian Marne L Campbell examines the intersections of race class and gender to produce a social history of community formation and cultural expression in Los Angeles Expanding on the traditional narrative of middle class uplift Campbell demonstrates that the black working class largely through the efforts of women fought to secure their own economic and social freedom by forging communal bonds with black elites and other communities of color This women led black working class agency and cross racial community building Campbell argues was markedly more successful in Los Angeles than in any other region in the country Drawing from an extensive database of all African American households between 1850 and 1910 Campbell vividly tells the story of how middle class African Americans were able to live work and establish a community of their own in the growing city of Los Angeles

it also sparked both racial conflict and cooperation Race and the War on Poverty examines the African American and Mexican American community organizations in Los Angeles that emerged to implement War on Poverty programs It explores how organizers applied democratic vision and political savvy to community action and how the ongoing African American Chicano and feminist movements in turn shaped the contours of the War on Poverty s goals programs and cultural identity Robert Bauman describes how the Watts riots of 1965 accelerated the creation of a black community controlled agency the Watts Labor Community Action Committee The example of the WLCAC combined with a burgeoning Chicano movement inspired Mexican Americans to create The East Los Angeles Community Union TELACU and the Chicana Service Action Center Bauman explores the connections that wove together the War on Poverty the Watts revolt and local movements in ways that empowered the participants economically culturally and politically Although heated battles over race and other cultural issues sometimes derailed the programs these organizations produced lasting positive effects for the communities they touched Despite Nixon era budget cuts and the nation s turn toward conservatism the War on Poverty continues to be fought today as these agencies embrace the changing politics economics and demographics of Los Angeles Race and the War on Poverty shows how the struggle to end poverty evolved in ways that would have surprised its planners supporters and detractors and that what began as a grand vision at the national level continues to thrive on the streets of the community

A City for Children Marta Gutman,2014-09-19 American cities are constantly being built and rebuilt resulting in ever changing skylines and neighborhoods While the dynamic urban landscapes of New York Boston and Chicago have been widely studied there is much to be gleaned from west coast cities especially in California where the migration boom at the end of the nineteenth century permanently changed the urban fabric of these newly diverse plural metropolises In A City for Children Marta Gutman focuses on the use and adaptive reuse of everyday buildings in Oakland California to make the city a better place for children She introduces us to the women who were determined to mitigate the burdens placed on working class families by an indifferent industrial capitalist economy Often without the financial means to build from scratch women did not tend to conceive of urban land as a blank slate to be wiped clean for development Instead Gutman shows how over and over women turned private houses in Oakland into orphanages kindergartens settlement houses and day care centers and in the process built the charitable landscape a network of places that was critical for the betterment of children families and public life The industrial landscape of Oakland riddled with the effects of social inequalities and racial prejudices is not a neutral backdrop in Gutman s story but an active player Spanning one hundred years of history A City for Children provides a compelling model for building urban institutions and demonstrates that children women charity and incremental construction renovations alterations additions and repurposed structures are central to the understanding of modern cities Black Americans and the Civil Rights Movement in the West Bruce A. Glasrud,Cary D. Wintz,2019-02-14 In 1927 Beatrice Cannady succeeded in removing racist language from the Oregon Constitution During World War II Rowena Moore fought for place where freedom is still a frontier for most persons of African heritage      Living the California Dream Alison Rose Jefferson,2022 Alison Rose Jefferson examines how African Americans pioneered America s frontier of leisure by creating communities and business projects in conjunction with their growing population in Southern California during the nation s Jim Crow era      We Now Belong to Ourselves Arianne Edmonds,2025-06-02 At the turn of the twentieth century the Black press provided a blueprint to help Black Americans transition from slavery and find opportunities to advance and prosper in American society Among the vanguard of the Black press was Jefferson Lewis Edmonds founder and editor of The Liberator newspaper He was born into slavery in Mississippi but as a liberated adult moved to Los Angeles and became a civil rights advocate farmer and journalist We Now Belong to Ourselves chronicles how Edmonds and other pioneering Black publishers documented the shifting tides in the advancement of Black liberation Written by Edmonds great great granddaughter the book argues that the Black press was central in transforming Black Americans communication patterns constructing national resistance networks and defining Black citizenship after Reconstruction a vision mission and spirit that persists today through Black online social movements
